By LINDA CHARLTON KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 5-Senator Walter F. Mondale charged the Ford Administration today with "a fundamental failure to heed the lessons of Watergate," starting with the pardon of lormer President Richard M. Nixon and continuing in its present approach to government. Although explicitly dissociating President Ford from any responsibility for what he called "the abuses of the Nixon years," the Democratic Vice-Presidential andidate said: "To the bater end, Mr. Ford strongly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. Oct. 5-China today rebuffed cautious Soviet moves to resume normal relations, following the death of Mao Tse-tung, and delivered instead a stinging rebuke to Soviet "expansionist" strategies.

The United States, by contrast, emerged relatively unscathed from China's first major foreign-policy address since Mao's death. The address was delivered to the 31st General Assembly by Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua.

China-watchers among the diplomatic corps were impressed by Mr. Chiao's eagerness to stress the consistency of nost-Mao policies with all that went before, and his strenuous insistence on the "unity" of the Chinese Government and people in the first weeks of the post-Mao

His 40-minute speech was interlaced with Mao quotations-a striking contrast to his address last year, in which Mao's name was never mentioned. Some experts interpreted this as an attempt hy the untried new leadership to bolster its own stature by draping itself in the Maoist legacy.

Disarmament Ideas Dismissed

Mr. Chiao scnrnfully dismissed the arious disarmament proposals made lo the Assembly last week by the Snviet Foreign Minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, "It is not worthwhile here to comment on such old stuff in new concoctions," Mr. Chiao said.

While Mr. Gromyko had spoken favorably of the "positive impact" of normalizing Chinese-Soviet relations, Mr. Chiao studded his remarks with salty revolutionary denunciations of the Communist

River Is Focus Of Bangladesh's Rift With India

By WILLIAM BORDERS Special in The New York Times

DACCA. Bangladesh, Sept. 28-The sluggish brown waters of the Ganges, which flow from India through Ban-gladesh and into the Bay of Bengal, have become the focus of a bitter political dis-pute between the two South Asian neighbors, as they were between India and Pakistan.

At issue is a $200 million barrier that India has built at the town of Farakka, 11 miles upstream from the border, to divert some of the water into another river to flush silt out of the port of Calcutta, 150 miles to the south Bangladesh, asserting that the diversion has had a devastating effect on agriculture, indusseemed particularly significant as an in-direct response to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's plea to China last week to show "sensitivity to our views and concerns." Chiao put a cast of doctrinaire Maoist ideology on every issue-despite his longstanding reputation as one of the more pragmatic of Chinese leaders. "As tionalities.' chairman Mao said, 'Surveying the whole world, we see that there is great disorder under heaven and that the situation is excellent'," he said, meaning that dis-orders presage the collapse of imperialism. Today's speech had been awaited for clues to possible shifts in Chinese foreign policy following Mao's death. Most diplo-mats considered it significant that they found none. "There was not a single phrase, a siogle word, a single syllable that could not have been uttered six months ago," said the British Foreign Secretary, Anthony Crosland, who ad-dressed the Assembly after Mr. Chiao. Secretary. The Chinese diplomat seemed to be addressing most of his remarks to the thirdworld couotries, urging them oot to be lured-or forced-into cooperation with the Soviet Union. "There is now a strange phenomenon

Western analysts saw this last charge as a particularly pointed barb, an allusion to internal dissidence in the Soviet Unioo. In the etiquette of Communist statements, raising such a sensitive internal subject is considered deeply offensive.

Mr. Crosland, in his address, signaled Britain's determination to maintain economic sanctions against Rhodesia until an interim government was installed. The lifting of those sanctions is one of Prime Minister Ian D. Smith's conditions for permitting majority rule.

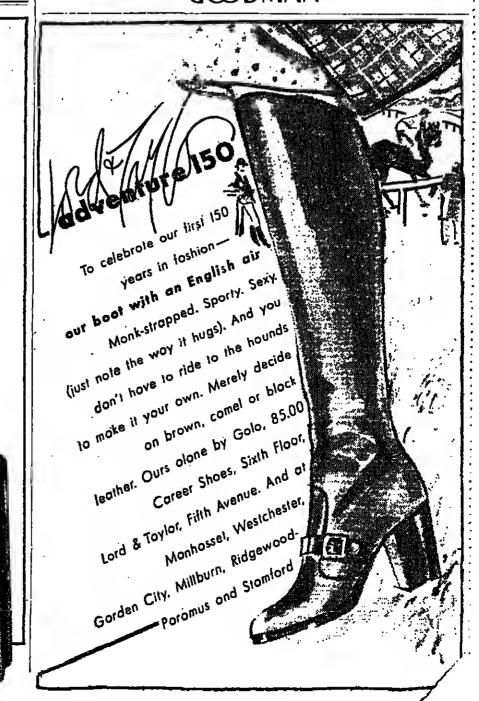

Later, speaking with reporters, Mr Crosland said that the British Govern ment would decide Friday on the proce dures for calling a conference among the Rhodesian parties to set up the transition regime. The British representative at the United Nations, Ivor Richard, is to be the conference chairman.

DAMASCUS, Syria, Oct. 5-Syria as- or the Lebanese Moslem leftists in any serted firmly today that it would continue possible orgotiations. its military interventioo in Lebanon until its objectives there had been achieved. The Syrian attitude, expressed in an ditorial in Al Thawra, the official newsaper, also said that "no pressure or in- terms of the 1969 Cairo agreement reguluence" would make this country change ts course of action.

While the source of possible pressure vas not specified, some diplomatic anaysts here felt the statement was meant o advise the United States, the Soviet Union and Fraoce that Damascus would not welcome proposals from outside the Arab world for Syrian withdrawal or negotistions.

The Syrian statement was also felt to be an expression of the determination of he Government of President Hafez al- country sent a force of 15,000 troops and Assad oot to grant significant concessions 500 tanks into Lebanon more than four to the Palestine Liberation Organization months ago.

Syria's position has been steadfast in ; recent weeks. The position is that the Palestinians and Lebanese leftists must agree to a cease-fire, with the Palestinians returning to their camps under the latiog their residence in Lebanon. There was no confirmation here tonight of reports that Svria had agreed to new oegotiations with either the Lebanese leftists or the Palestinians. The Syrian reaction to proposals for negotiation in Paris has been cold, with the idea of Paris talks described as a ploy by the Lebanese leftists and others to impede a solution of the Lebanese crisis.

The editorial here was of the most confident, if not aggressive, statements of Syrian policy since this

Senate Panel Links Calaway Pressure To Ski Resort Gain

WASHINGTON, Oct. S (UPI)-A Senate subcommittee draft report says that President Ford's former campaign director, Howard H. Callaway, used his position as Secretary of the Army to influence the Forest Service to permit expansion of a family-owned ski resort.

In a draft copy of a 132-page report approved 5 to 4 by the Senate Subcommittee on Environment and Land Resources, the decision was attributed to improper pressure by Mr. Callaway or others on bis bebalf.

The vote was divided along party lines with the Republican minority declaring Mr. Callaway innocent and saying that So used the allegations for political pur-

The majority report said that circumstantial evidence indicated that Mr. Callaway had used improper influence to secure more Government land for expanding the Crested Butte, Colo., resort.

The Forest Service initially recommended that he ski resort operated by Mr. Callaway and his brother-in-law by expand beyond the Crested Butte moun-tain. But late in 1975, it agreed to make 2,000 acres of land on nearby Snodgrass Mountain available for expansion.

New Hearings Underway

The allegations of improper influence forced Mr. Callaway to resign as head of the President Ford Committee last winter. The Forest Service has since reopened hearings on the Crested Butte expansion. The report said that the incident under mined public confidence in Government decision making and called it "a sorry history of partiality and favoritism to-ward nne of their friends occupying a high position of public trust and responsi-bility in the Federal Government." All witnesses at the subcommittee's hearings an Constant Putto Line

A major factor in this finding was a meeting on July 3, 1975 in Mr. Callaway's Pentagon office attended by former Under Secretary of Agriculture J. Phil Campbell; his deputy, Richard Ashworth, and Ber Parlier deputy, Richard Ashworth, and Rex Resler, deputy chief of the Forest Service.

The subcommittee said it was "not convinced" that Mr. Callaway's only concern was to expedite a decision in the case and said he used the meeting "to press for a decision favorable to Crested Butte.

The report said, "There is no doubt that Mr. Callaway particpated in events the natural and logical effect of which could only have been to create such pres sure.

M'CARTHY AND MADDOX LOSE EQUAL-TIME PLEA

WASHINGTON, Oct. S (AP)—Eugene J. McCarthy was rebuffed by the Supreme Court today in a move designed to block tomorrow night's scheduled Presidential

- In a one-sentence order, the Court refused to bypass the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and hear Mr. McCarthy's appeal from a decision earlier in the day by the Federal Communications Commission rejecting his contention that excluding him from the debates violates the fairness doctrine. Mr. McCarthy, an independent candi-date, and Lester G. Maddox, the American Independent Party candidate, had both sought equal debate time. They ar-gued that the Presidential debates were not bona fide news events, as required by F.C.C. rules to qualify for exempting from the equal time rule. The F.C.C. kuled against both of them.

WESTERLY, R. L. Oct. 5 (AP)—Eugene J. McCarthy failed today to qualify for the Rhode Island general election ballot, according to Secretary of State Robert F. Burns. ÷Ļ, Huma In an interview on radio station WERI here, Mr. Burns said Mr. McCarthy had $72 valid signatures but needed 1,000.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 5 (UPI) — Lester G. Maddox lost a bid yesterday to get equal treatment on the Nov. 2 ballot in Tennessee Attorneys for Mr. Maddox had filed sait in Federal court seeking equal billing on the ballot with President Ford and Jimmy Carter. United States District Court Judge L. Clure Morton dismissed the suit, saying that Mr. Maddox had not properly qualified as a candidate in Tennessee.

U.S. BEGINS EXPERIMENT ON INSURANCE DISPUTES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (UPI)-The Gov ernment and the nation's independent insurance agents today began a one-year experiment aimed at resolving one of the top 10 consumer complaints, disputes between insurance companies and their customers customers.

 Only Michigan, Mississippi, Montana and Utah will be involved, but officials said they hoped the project would pro-vide the groundwork for a permanent method of turning complaints over to an independent third party for review.

Virginia H. Knauer, President Ford's consumer adviser, said: "I would like to in be able to tell you that the entire industry is alert to this matter of unresolved complaints. Yesterday the group of reporters and editors who sat with Senator Weicker and Mrs. Schaffer allowed the conversation to assume its own momentum, and the candidates kept the encounter lively, often interrupting one another.

Abortion

WEICKER: Well, as far as abortion is concerned, I support the ruling of the Supreme Court. I'm against the constitutional amendment. I do not think you use the Constitution as a wastepaper basket for every hot legislative issue that comes along, whether it's abortion, whether it's husing, any more than Prohibition properly be-longed in the Constitution of the United States.

MRS. SCHAFFER: I think we're pretty much alike on abortion. I do support the Supreme Court decision. I wouldn't be in favor of any constitutional amend-ment on the subject, and I think that we've got to do much more in terms of directing programs of family plan-ning and family education, because I don't think that abortion is the answer to family planning.

Legalized Gambling WEICKER: Look, now it's not a Federal issue ... but I've expressed myself in the past, and I'm more than a üttle dishearrened to see a state that was No. 1 in education, No. 1 in the care of the mentally retarded, No. I in social services, etc., become No. I in-legalized gambling. Wall-to-wall gambling - you name it, we got it. And maybe that sounds line as far as some income is concerned, but there's going to be a price to be paid, and it'll be a price that is paid in the quality of our Government and our politics. So I'm not going to sit here in any manner, shape or, form and encourage this mania which is to my way of thinking going to be fun for now and hell later. MRS. SCHAFFER: I think there's no. question but that the state is deriving . revenues. The lottery, I think is certo have the new one. Once the members learn that they can attain power by organizing, they usually set their sights higher. Then the various groups in an area join to fight for lower utility rates or equalized tax assessments or a slate of candidates for local office.

ACORN'S founder and chief organizer is a 28-year-old Williams College dropout named Wade Rathke. He has lived in various parts of the country,: the longest in New Orleans. He began as an organizer for the National Welfare Rights Organization in Massachusetts.

ter services and facilities in low-income neighborhoods and it fights the utilities Wednesday the Federal Environmental Protection Administratioo asked states to on everything from high rates to polluactivate their air monitoring networks. tion. It receatly added banks to its list.

In the November electioo it will be battling the wealthiest financial institutions, the largest businesses and industries and the most powerful utility in Arkansas. And it will be fighting powerful interests in Missouri to remove the state sales tax from food and drugs.

The organization still finds time for scores of local battles over flooded yards, dogs on the loose and intersec-tions without stop signs.

ACORN was indulged at first as the visionary tinkering of post-Vietnam War youths looking for a cause. Now that it has become a threat—and the membership rolls have taken on as many old folk as youngsters—the country clubs and chambers of commerce that historically have run things in towns like Little Rock have begun to stir uneasily.

A few weeks ago, Mayor George Wimberley of Little Rock denounced an ACORN plan for lowering electric an Actory plan for lowering store a rates as "socialism in the worst de-gree." State Representative Boyce Al-fard of Pine Bluff has called ACORN a threat to capitalism.

Headed by Retired Blacksmith

Similar alarms are being sounded in the board rooms and council chambers of several other cities of the region as ACORN extends its reach.

The chairman of the Arkansas board of ACORN is a retired railroad blacksmith named W. Willerd Johnson. His enthusiasm for socialism is about as deep as Barry Goldwater's. He is leaning toward President Ford in this year's election.

"Most of our people are conservative," he said.

But Mr. Johnson, unlike the rich real estate men and bankers who make the big decisions here, has never had much clout at City Hali.

He and his neighbors in southwestern Little Rock complained for years, without results, about poor drainage that caused flooding in their yards and in some of their houses.

They hearda bout ACORN and some decided to join. With help from the organization, they got a $960,000 Federal grant to rework ditches and streets in the oeighborhood. And they have a promise from the corps of engineers of a longterm drainage plan.

First Goals Are Modest

ACORN'S first projects in a newly organized neighborhood generally are modest compaigns such as improving garbage collection and getting traffic decided that a more effective organization might be built if it had a broader base than one composed of welfare clients alone, With Mr. Wiley's encouragement and initial financial aid, Mr. Ratake chose Arkansas with its diverse population and geography to test the theory. He came here in 1970.

Mr. Rathke, who is white, was determined to avoid the race-baiting that destroyed Southern populist move-ments in the past. He made sure that ACORN always a solid mixture of black and white members.

"There's something about ACORN," Mr. Johnson said, "it doesn't make any difference what a person's skin is. That's one benefit 1 thing I've gotten out of ACORN. Our people have common problems and they try to help one another, not kick them in the hutt be-cause they're hlack ro Catholic or something else."

An example of ACORN's power was the passage of a law by the Arkansas legislature permitting physicians to prescribe drugs by lower-cost generic rather than hrand names.

An ACORN unit of older people at Hot Springs orginated the campaign. The larger organization persuaded Gov. David H. Pryor to help push it through the legislature. Later, ACORN, helped persuade the state pharmaceutical board to permit drug advertising.

ACORN gets much of the credit for scaling down a huge new coal burning electric generating plant south of Little Rock. The Arkansas Power and Light Company was required to cut the project in half and install pollution devices after ACORN and other group and individuals protested.

The organization is now trying to force the same power company to shift part of its collections from small households to favored industrial users that have always paid lower rates. Six Ar-kansas cities will vote on the ACORN and governmental interests have joined the power company in fighting it.

Lobbying, Publicity, Lawsuits

ACORN uses lobbying, publicity, lawsints, public hearings and any other kind of persuasion it can find,

ACORN members and some of their political allies are now working for a slate of candidates for the Little Rock City Council.

The staff of 35-organizers, lawyers, researchers carn lower salaries than many of the people they recruit. Beginning organizers are paid $45 a week and senior ones, $90.

An Acorn affiliate known as the Arkansas Institute for Social Justice has begun to train organizers for other groups around the country. In 1975, Mr. Rathke said, it trained 450 persons for 55 other organizations.

The organization's member families pay dues of $16 a year. From various Sources, including consulting work and small foundation grants, the group takes in and spends about $250,000 a year, Mr. Rathke said.

Mr. Rathke is anxious that the organizatioo not grow too fast. He believes that has killed other mass organizatinns. The expansion to Memphis, where Acorn began working last sum-mer, will be the last one for several months.

Mr. Butz resigned as Secretary yester-day because of what he called "a gross indescretion" of a "bad racial commentary" in a private conversation. The indiscretion was a racial slur, contained in what he has since called a joke, which was published in Rolling Stone maga-zine. In resigning, Mr. Butz said he planned to cootinue campaigning for Mr. Ford.

Meanwhile, Mr. Butz reacted angrily today to a published report that, under his leadership, the Agriculture Depart-ment had circumvented Federal laws on equal employment opportunities for blacks and that he had held secret meet ings with state Cooperative Extension Service directors for that purpose. A report in The Los Angeles Times said that Cooperative Extension Services in seven states-Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland and Texashad been found in violation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act and faced a cut-off of Agriculture Department funds at the time of the meetings. The newspaper noted that the Agriculture Department had the lowest ratio of employees from minority groups among departments of the executive branch.

It also cited Civil Service Commission statistics showing that, of 85,086 full-time department employees, 8,418, or 9.9 per-cent, were members of minority groups, compared with 15.9 percent of all Federal employees. It added that 5,656, or 6.6 percent, of the department employees were black.

The paper said that Mr. Butz had helped

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3-As it is viewed from Robinwood West-e patch of Suburbia U.S.A. that, by its appearance, could be almost anywhere-the Presidential election is boiling down to a choice between the known and the unknown.

The known is well ahead at this stage in Robinwood West although the man who embodies it, President Ford, evokes an enthusiasm so slight as to be almost invisible. Of 17 potential Ford supporters who were interviewed here on a random basis, only four were prepared to say that they thought Mr. Ford had been a good President.

Wayne Stephenson, a middle-level manager for the McDonnell Douglas Corporation, was one of those four. But ho went on to describe Mr. Ford as a "died-in-the-wool politician" who is lacking in "innovative capacity." Noting a report that he had just heard on the radio that the Watergate special prosecutor was abandoning his investigation of Mr. Ford's campaign finances in Michigan, Mr. Stephenson commented: "I wouldn't have been at all surprised the investigation had turned out the other way."

Salesman Not Impressed

Richard Wohlberg, a salesman of fabricated metal, said he thought the President had done an "excellent" job hut added: "I'm not really impressed with Ford. He's not exactly a guy I look at and say I want to be just like him. The people I deal with day to day come across better, a lot of them, than Ford."

Much has been made in selction analvses of the "softness" of Jimmy Carter's support but these responses seem to indicate that softness is a general attribute of any candidate's support this fall. The latest New York Times/ CBS poll showed that the vote in the suburbs was swinging decisively in the President's favor.

But when the trend was examined in microcosm in Robinwood West-a generally conservative community that secretly backs Democrats at state and tering department regulations to extend indefinitely the time the agencies had to blacks was "not as good as the average." But he contended, "Wo have made more comply with Federal standards. progress in the last two years than in 30 years prior."

"The commission wishes particularly to stress," the ageocy said in a policy statement, "that it has undertaken enforcement actions in numerous cases to date and that such compliance procedures will continue."

As a result, it declared, all candidates for Presideot, Vice President, senator and representative "should accordingly comply with the requirements of the Federal Election Commission regulations during the 1976 election," even though they are technically not in force.

Under 1974 Law

The regulations, 44 Congressional Record-sized pages of small print, specify requirements that the commission is exacting from candidates and political committees under the authority of the 1974 campaign law and amendments that Congress eoacted last May. Under the law, such regulations go ioto full effect automatically 30 legislative or working days after they are submitted to Congress, as long as neither house disapproves them. In the last two months, the lawmakers took two recesses, for the Republican National Convention and Labor Day; in addition, oo Mondays and Fridays, one house sometimes sits while the other is not in session.

The pending regulations specify in con-siderable detail the reports that candi-dates and political committees must file, the way they must account for contributions and expenditures, limits the com-mission has imposed on independent cam-paign spending and the commission's enforcement procedures.

"This announcement," the agency ob-served today, "provides notice to all af-fected parties that the commission intends to administer the law in a fashion which implements the interpretations set forth in the proposed regulations."

As a practical matter, the commission statement meant that a candidate who violated the regulations during the next month, relying on the fact that they are technically not in force, would find it virtually impossible to plead good faith if the commission took him to court.

To buttress their conclusion that they Supreme Court decision to the effect that "the administrative interpretation of the act by the enforcing agency is ontitled to great deference."

Ford Foreign-Policy Record and Kissinger Expected to Be Central Themes in Debate

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5-Presideot Ford and Jimmy Carter will address a number of foreign policy and defense issues in their televised debate tomorrow night. In addition to revealing how each candidate handles the subject, the debate should also provide some answers to specific questions. Following is a rundown of some of the issues likely to be raised and some points for viewars to look for in the discussion.

Background

Since Mr. Ford is the President, by necessity he will have to defend his Administration's record. He bas said that abilities. The Democratic candidate bas already criticized Mr. Ford for allowing Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger too much leeway in running foreign affairs and for conducting a policy that is too secretive and "immoral."

The issues to be studied are whether accept the terms of the Vladivostok Mr. Rissinger's highly personalized diplomacy has furthered or damaged American national interests and whether a more opeo or more morally sensitive foreign policy necessarily increases this country's

Soviet Union

Both candidates have said that relaticos with the Soviet Unioo should be based on a mixture of cooperation and competi-tion, concultation and firmness, or as Mr. Ford bas said, "peace through strength." Earlier this year, Mr. Ford dropped the word "détente" from his vocabulary and asserted that a "two-way" street existed with Moscow, with neither side having an advantage over the other. Mr. Ford still supports the goal of detente-an eas-ing of tensions-and says it is of para-mount importance to do what can be done to achieve arms-control accords. Mr. Carter, however, has argued that be would be tougher oo the Russians and would secure more advantage for the United States.

いいたとうないのであっていた。

The Helsinki agreement, signed by Mr. Ford last year, has come uoder attack by Mr. Carter as benefiting the Soviet Union by implicitly accepting Soviet hegemony in Eastern Europe without ac-companying moves by Moscow to allow a freer flow of ideas and people.

There are many specific areas to be investigated. How should the United States react to Soviet military involvement in areas of marginal strategic im-portance, like Angola? Mr. Carter has said it was wrong to send in military help as Mr. Ford did and has said that as President he would have cut trade with the Soviet Union In retaliation.

Mr. Ford is about to do so. The most urgent arms-control problem is the deadlocked oegotiations with the Soviet Union on a new treaty limiting has in recent months become deeply in-offensiva strategic arms.

The accord has been held up over two issues: whether a new Soviet bomber, known as the Backfire should be included even though the Russians insist it is oot a heavy strategic bomber, and wheththe nation's foreign policy was "sound er the American cruise missile should be and strong." Mr. Carter, on the other hand, will try to cast doubt on Mr. Ford's Vladivostok. The ceiling would allow each sida 2,400 heavy hombers and missile launchers. Of these, 1,320 missiles could bave multiple warheads. Would Mr. Ford be willing to accept an agreement that did not include the

Given Peking's conviction that Taiwan

How important is it that relations ter has also been less enthusiastic about proceeding with a new bomber, the B-I. than Mr. Ford.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5-Much of what Jinny Carter will say tomorrow in the foreign policy debate with Presideot Ford will bave been ioflueoced by the son of a former Polish diplomat who is now a professor at Columbia University.

According to members of the Carter camp. Prof. Zbigniew Brzezinski contin-ues to be the most influential figure in the Democratic nominee's stable of foreign policy advisers. He is the only person to whom Mr. Carter has publicly prom-ised a top job if he is elected.

Mr. Brzezinski, who was summoned to California yesterday to brief the nominee for the dehate, is credited with being one of the architects of the strategy of attacking Mr. Ford's record from both conservaive and liberal attitudes: for not being tough eoough on the Russians, for being inattentive to developing countries and industrialized allies, and for being unconcenned about human rights.

Position on Detente at Issue

He is also said to be a prime mover in the group urging Mr. Carter to be even more critical of the Administration's man-agement of détente with Moscow and relations with Eastern Europe.

In a telephone interview, Mr. Brzezinski (pronounced hra-ZHIN-ski) disagreed with this characterization of his advice and his importance as an adviser. He played down his influence on Mr. Carter.

"I have the very strong view that the media has vastly exaggerated my role," he said. "I know for a fact that several other people have as much or more influ-ence than I may have had."

His modesty is oot supported by other sources who suggested that he was trying to avoid the vulnerability that attends public exposure. One source in the Carter camp said, "Zbig doesn't want to become a target; he has enough problems as it

Seven Northeastern States Ask Carter to Back Their Energy Compact

By ROLAND SULLIVAN

A coalition representing the Democratic governors of seven Northestern states urged Jimmy Carter yesterday to support the creation of a regional energy development corporation that would help the states establish new power systems and to arrest the deterioration of their economic base.

The proposed corporation would be created by interstate compact, with the approval of Congress. It would be anthor-ized to issue bonds so that it could bor-row and lend money to generate power and economic development in the Northcast. While the first priority of the corpo-ratioo would be energy, other forms of economic development would be generated, too,

The proposed corporation and an out-line of the coalition's broad objectives were contained in a letter sent vesterday

The contest is over. The Golf Digest/Tennis combination buy now gives advertisers "The Most Active 1,149,025 in Sport."

Earlier this year it became obvious that circulation gains by Golf Digest and Tennis had outstripped our combination buy slogan, "The Most Active Million in Sport."

医前部的 计分析算法

So we sponsored "The Most Active How Many in Sport" contest...offering trips to the 1977 golf and tennis U.S. Opens to advertising wizards most closely predicting the combined circulation of the magazines in the June 30 Audit Bureau of Circulations Publishers Statements. The predictions poured in from advertising executives all over the country.

Marsha Smelkinson, director PR/ advertising for Palmetto Dunes Resorts, Hilton Head, S.C., won the trip for two to the 1977 U.S. Open at the West Side Tennis Club in New York. Her prediction—the closest was 1,148,936. Raymond Gardner, production manager for Roy Zeff Associates, Skokie, Ill., won the trip for two to the 1977 U.S. Golf Association Open in Tulsa. His prediction was 1,149,600.

The individual ABC Publishers Statements -834,208 for Golf Digest, 314,817 for Tennis—mean that Golf Digest has given advertisers a healthy circulation bonus over its rate base in the last 17 ABC six-month periods, while Tennis has done the same over the last six, ever since it has been ABC-audited.

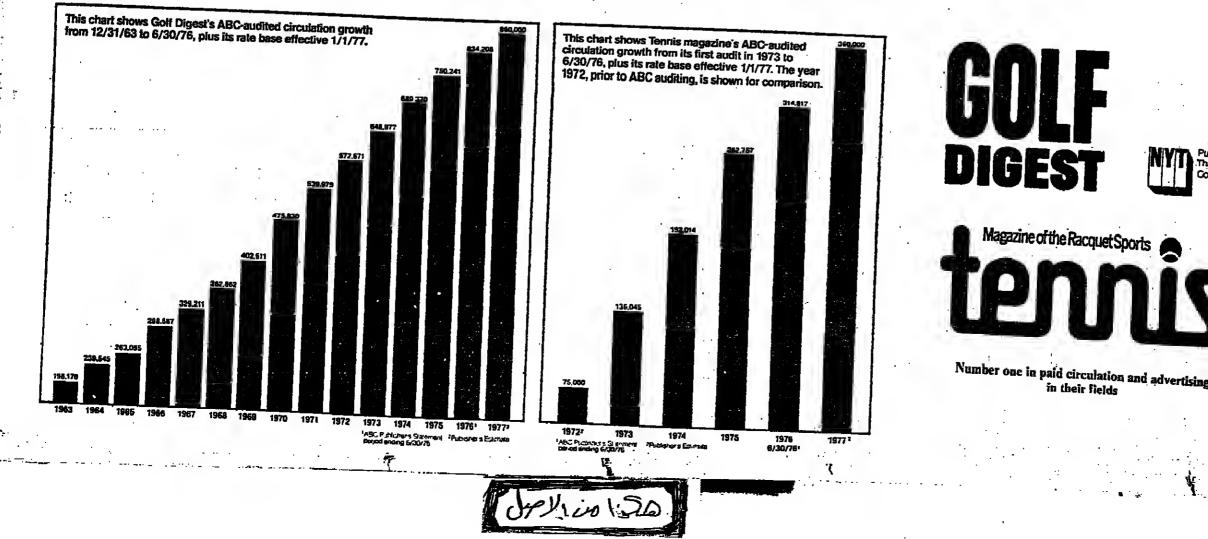

And the rate base is still climbing. In January, 1977, Golf Digest goes to 860,000, Tennis to 360,000.

There can be only one reason for the remarkable circulation growth shown on the accompanying charts. Both magazines give readers exactly what they want: an intelligently edited blend of topical, brightly written articles on all facets of the games they love and clear, authoritative instruction that helps them play better and enjoy it more.

And when readers are pleased, so are advertisers. More than 45 have already taken advantage of the Golf Digest/Tennis combination buy.

Remember, each magazine is number one in paid circulation and advertising in its field. Buy them in combination and they deliver a new target market of active, it affluent participants at a substantial discount.

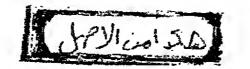

For more information on the Golf Digest/Tennis buy, call advertising sales directors Jay FitzGerald, Golf Digest, or Edgar L. Harrison, Tennis—both at (212) 986-2800.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 5-The Yankees, for the most part unaccustomed to traveling anywhere at the end of the season but home, arrived in Kansas City tonight with close to a dozen wives, one child, one goai and a coupie of minor mysteries.

Their goal, of course, was to wio the American League pennant in a three-of-five-game playoff with Kansas City. Their success toward reaching that goal could be determined in the two games here, the first Saturday afterooon and the second Sunday night. The mysteries, or unanswered questions, also will be resolved by the weekend: who will be the Yankees' starting pitcher for the third game (the first in New York next Tuesday night) and will Mickey Rivers be able to play up to the capabilities that played such a prominent role in the team's Eastern Division championship? In making the team's first postseason trip since World Series visits to St. Louis in 1964, these Yankees left Yankee Stadium in New York at 3:15 P.M. after a one-hour workout. They were seen off by nine school-age youngsters. and four police officers at the Stadium plus two United Airlines employees at Kennedy International Airport and they were greeted upoo their arrival bere by two haggage carousels.

Quiet Trip for Team

The trip was the quietest of the sea-son for the generally rancous Yaokees, which goes to show the kind of influence wives have oo players. On one of the two huses to Kennedy in New York, only muffled voices and a single

About Bat Masterson's Office Boy A social event that unaccountably escaped mention on the society peges and in Suzy's column took place in New York recently. Leaders of industry, the arts, finance, science and especially the Sweet Science, gathered to celebrate the 90th birthday of Sam Taub, who has been a landmark in this town so long that his bowtie ought to be declared a national historic site like Lincoln's birthplace in Kentucky or Chim-ney Rock in Nebraska. Sam was born the year of the Haymarket Riots in Chicago, the year Geronimo surrendered to the United States Cavalry, the year A.

Conan Doyle created Sherlock Holmes, and Sports to say he is the liveliest conagenarian this side of the famous detective is carrying understatement to extremes. Indeed, bounc-The Times ing along on the boxing beat, covering more ground than crabgrass, he shows his age less than anybody who comes to mind, and that includes Muhammad Ali.

Early in this century, Sam was office boy for Bat Mas-terson, the Indian fighter, scout, gambler and lawman of the Old West, who was sports editor of The Morning Tele-graph up to 1921. Masterson gave Sam a chance to spread his wings as a sports writer and is still Sam's hero. Sam is no higger than a growier of beer, and you wouldn't think a guy his size could contain the indignation that boils out of him when he speaks of the fictionalized dandy who was presented as Masterson in a television series a few years ago,

At 90, Sam never misses a fight or a happening of any sort on the boxing beat, he covers fight shows for The Ring magazine, reports to the office in West 31st Street regularly and writes a column under the caption, "Up and Down Old Broadway."

Anton and Gus

More familiar than his writing to most sports fans over 40 is his reedy, staccato voice, redolent of the New York streets, which brought hlow-by-blow descriptions of fights over cadio in the days before television. For various periods, as his radin sponsors changed, the name Sam Tauh became synonymous with Adam Hats, Truly Warner hats and Gem razors. Along with Clem McCarthy and, for a few heavyweight championsbips, Grabam McNamee, Sam was a pioneer of blow-by-blow broadcasting.

It was his identification with Gem that cost him that job. Mike Jacohs had been collecting $500 a show from the sponsor when Gillette came along with an offer of $5,000. Naturally, the promoter said yes, but Sam's ideotification with a competitor made him undesirable in the new sponsor's view.

An audition was conducted in connection with a lightheavyweight title match between Antoo Christoforidis and Gus Lesnevich. Candidates for the network assignment sat at riogside and recorded their descriptions of the bout, for review by company executives. Paul Douglas, a sportscastec who later had a hig success in the Broadway theater, was one of the applicants. So was a young guy named Doo Dunphy, who took the test reluctantly at the urging of Mike

Jacobs's oephew, Irwin Rosee. Every announcer tripped and sprawled ovec the oames of the two fighters, except Dunphy. Referring to them only as Anton and Gus, be won in a breeze. If memory serves, the last bout Sammy did on the air was Rocky Graziano's second war with Tony Zale in Chi-cago in 1947. For years after that, however, he continued to do a Sunday morning talk show called, "Hour of Champions." Occasionally a guest would stand him up but that was no problem. Sam would reach for the phone and find a friend willing to fill in without notice — Jack Dempsey, Joe Lapchick, the basketball coach; Harry Markson of Madison Square Garden, oc one of a thousand others.

Pure Crystal Prose

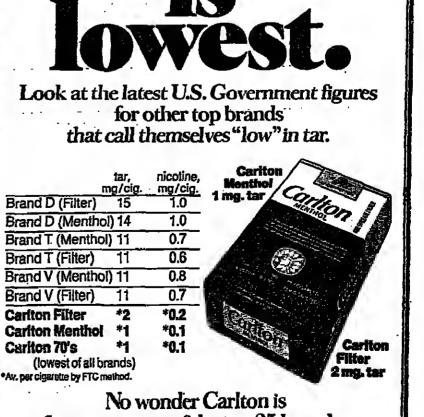

Among connoisseurs, it is a point of dispute whether Sam or Graham McNamee was the announcer who described an "overhand right uppercut." If it was Sam, he could make you see it. One night he was doing a show from the Bronx Coliseum and lending an Armageddon touch to the 10-round feature until the seventh round, when the referee threw hoth bums out for not trying.

Today readers of The Ring rank some of Sam's prose works as the equal, in another medium, of a Grandma Moses primitive. For example:

"izzy Grove, who was a fice competitor 45 years ago when he clashed with the best among the weiters and middleweights, has never left the fight scene. Izzy is the man who handles all the posters put out by Madison Square Garden and you can see them displayed all around New York, Long Island, Westchester and New Jersey. At times he has stapled more than 200 posters a show and he can find sites that are amazing. He gets them on construction sites and in store windows,

"Grove loves his business, He's also handled many other assignments on the side so he must be rated the No. 1 poster man today, Grove is living over in Brooklyn with his wife,

We remember Izzy as a fighter and he fought them all, including some heavyweights. Names are too numerous. He was a real fighter and he had plenty of tough assignments duriog his career. In those days the money was short. But Izzy, after quitting the ring, went ioto the theater field and his love right now is posters and he sure does a great job."

be the starting pitcher for game No. 3.

He most likely was Dock Ellis, but he also could have been Ken Holtzman or Doyle Alexander. At least that was the impression Manager Billy Martin wanted to leave pending his announcement Sunday. He already has named Hunter and Ed Figueroa for the first two games.

"There are two pitchers [of the regular starting five] who won't be pitching and I'd rather have them find out later," Martin explained before leaving New York. "I'll tell them Friday. But the pitcher who's going to pitch knows. I already told him,"

Randy Jones Faces Arm Operation

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 5 (AP)-The future of Randy Jones, the Natinoal League's top winning pitcher in 1976, was a question mark today with the discovery of a detached bicep teodon in his pitching arm. The San Diego Padres' star left-hander, who posted a 22-14 wonlost record this season, will uodergo surgery Thursday.

In a game against Ciocinnati oo Sept. 28 Jones was taken out with what was announced as a muscle pull in his arm. But an orthopedic surgeon, Frank Jobe, checked the arm Sunday and found Jones unable to produce a muscle in his clenched left fist. "Dr. Jobe said he didn't know if I would be able to pitch again," Jones said.

Another surgeoo, Robert Kerlan, said the injury was rare for a pitcher and "it is a definite threat to Randy's future how complete his recovery will be," Definitely lost is the sliding pitch with which Jones alternated his sinker, rated the most effective in baseball. If the surgery at Centinela Hospital in Inglewood goes well, sald Jones, "Dr. Jobe tells me I should be able to throw the sinker without straining the arm but I'll have to get rid of the slider. It was the slider that did it."

The 6-foot, 173-pounder led National League pitchers in innings pitched with 310, completed 25 of his 40 starts, tossed five shutouts, had a 2.74 earnedrun average and accounted for 30 per-cent of San Diego's victories this sea-SOL

A month ago, Jones survived a headoo crash against a telephone pole with only cuts and bruises but bls car was wrecked. "If a telephone pole can't kill me, this thing won't either," he said of the arm injury. "He hasn't said anything to me," Ellis

All right, that cuts the suspects down to two.

"No," Alexander said, "he hasn't told me anything." Ah ha, the winner and third-game starter is Holtzman, right? "He hasn't said anything," Holtzman said At this point, if Colombo were smart, be would call in Kojak.

Either Martin is playing a little game and hasn't told anyone anything, de-spite what be said, or the pitcher be told was sworn to CLA.-like secrecy. Nevertheless, Ellis remained the favorite for the assignment.

Martin, at tha same time, would like to see Rivers hurry up and reclaim his center-field-leadoff hatter assignment.

Yanks Need Rivers Flow Rivers bas played virtually not at all since suffering a bruised left sboul-der in Cleveland Sept. 15, and his presence in the Yankees' playoff lineap is a prerequisite to winning the pen-

"It's burting; it's kind of sore," said Rivers, whose speed will be important to the Yankees both on the bases and on the artificial turf outfield. "I'm not too sure I'll be 100 percent, but I hope I'll be ready."

"He should be ready by now," Martin said, sounding just a bit miffed. "The doctor said I could play him anytime wanted. But I didn't need him and he didn't seem anxious to play."

Willie Randolph is another player who has been ailing, but he said his sore back won't keep him from playing. Randolph's wife, Gretchen, came with him. Roo Guidry's pregnant wife, Bonnie, will be joiniog him from their home in Lafayette, La.

Guidry, a little-used pitcher, learned Sunday that Gene Locklear, and not he, would be trimmed from the roster to make room for Elliott Maddox. Until then, the 26-year-old rookie figured he might be driving to Lafayette today instead of flying to Kansas City.

Rangers Open Tonigh New Faces, New Hoj

Hockey League season at 7:35 o'clock tonight against the Minnesota North Stars at Madison Square Garden. And if you don't have a program, you may. be in trouble.

For the new season-their 51st-the Rangers are presenting new faces, new uniforms, new numbers, a new assistant coach, a new goalle, a new "en-forcer" and, General Manager-Coach John Ferguson fervently hopes, a new enthusiasm for playing "tough, respectable hockey.'

However, there are also some new rules this year, most of them intended to curb violence. Experts feel the new rules can help prevent each club's 80game schedule from becoming sickening, blood-letting combat. Compared to the rebuilt North Stars, whose roster includes 10 new players. the Rangers have eight. But only 19 players of the overmanned Ranger squad of 26 will dress for the game. Gilles Gratton, the first new player Ferguson signed ("My first deal may turn out to be my best"), will be in goal John Davidson, who is still con-sidered the No. 1 goaltender, has a strained back, but Gratton figured in all three exhibition victories. New Ranger forwards include Don Murdoch, the No. I draft choice, who is expected to man right wing on the Walt Tkaczok-Greg Phils line, and Nick Fotiu, who is slated to play left wing on the Pete Stemkowski-Bill Fairbairn line.

Fotiu, proconneed Foe-TEE-you, a native of Staten Island who played his last two seasons in the World Hockey Association, has been designated as the Hockey of his "policeman" because of his aggressive qualities. However, he is also a fast skater.

Two other rookies, still unsigned but who played impressively in the Ranger preseason, are Dan Newman and Mark Heaslip. Yesterday, Ferguson met with their agents to resolve contract mat-ters. If signed in time, Newman could fill in at left wing for Steve Vickers, who is in tractico with a bad back.

Then there is the veteran Ken Hodge, former Boston Bruin, who has been reu-nited with Phil Esposito, the Ranger captain and center. On the left side of this line would be Pat Hickey, con-sidered the fastest skater on the team.

Defense Looked Bad in 75

Ferguson is looking especially for new enthusiasm on defense, where the Rangers looked so pitiful last season. So far, nine defensemeo have been re-tained by the club, including two newcomers, Dave Farrisb and Mike McEwen:

A member of the fiercely competitive Patrick Division, in which they finished fourth and out of the playofts last season, the Rangers could use a fast start this year to give them the confidence and impetus so vital to their "new look.

An easy opening part of the schedule gives them an outstanding opportunity. Four of their first seven contests are against the North Stars and the Colorado Rockies, formerly the Kansas City Scouts, both of whom failed to qualify for the playoffs and are not expected to this season, either.

New Stadium for Giants Ready for Opener Sunday

on the 43-man rester is believed to be Jum Marsalis, the former all-pro defensive back dropped by the Kaosas City Chicfs this year.

Arnsparger listed Henry Stuckey, the regular right cornerback, as "questionable" for the Cowboy game. Stuckey has missed two games with a sore knee, but the coach said, "He's better." If Stuckey can play, be will pair with Bill (Boone) Bryant at the corners. Problems at Left Guard

The Close-to-Secaucus Giants are also hurting at left guard. Al Simpson, the regular who sprained his left knee in the season opener, was finally taken off the "out" list, but is still doubtful for Sunday. His replacement, Ron Mikolajczyk, burt his right ankle in last weekend's loss to the St. Louis Cardinals and is "questionable." Bill Ellenbogen, who had failed to make the final cut but then was re-signed as a free ageot after Simpsoo was hurt, could get a start.

No matter who plays, though, the team will fically have a home-field advantage after six preseason games, four regular-season contests and two previous seasons at nomads at the Yale Bowl and Shea Stadium.

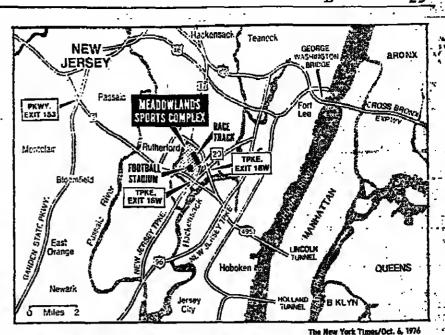

"We've played in strange places sloce I've been here," said Amsparger, "in some strange surroundings. It'll be good to have a bome."

Landry Reports on Cowboys

Coach Tom Landry of the 4-0 Cowboys reported by phone from Dallas that all his players "except Preston Pearson and Mel Renfro, who are limping," were well. The two injured men are available. Landry said the new stadium "should have an effect" on the game. "Everything's going to be pretty enthusiastic," he said.

"I've been impressed with New York most of the season anyway," Landry added.

New York? Are they still in the league?

Miss Evert Wins, but Finger Hurts

By FRED TUPPER Special to The New York Time

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct.5-With Billie Jean King waiting in the wings, Chris Evert won shakily from Bunoy Bruning, 6-2, 6-3, today in the $70,000 Talley tennis tournament. Miss Evert complained of recurring tendonitis in the middle finger of her right hand.

"If it doesn't get any worse, I can play," she said. She had the trouble before Forest Hills, "I was able to rest eight or nine days then," she said,"and it went away, Now I'm committed to play right through early December." "It's arthritis," said Chuck Amato, therapist, "Deposits have formed in the joint and must be broken down every day by massage before she can play. I've suggested that she take calcium and stay away from sugar. Unless she does, that baby's going to start getting stiff on ber. It's partly psycho-logical. She's under meotal tensioo, Miss Evert took her 24th tournament match in a row. She is undefeated since losing the Virginia Slims final in April to Evonne Goolagong, who is not playing bere.

A 15-Mooth Absence

Chris was aced three times in the first game by the huge serve of Miss Bruning and it took time to get rhythm into her shots. Trailing, 0-2, she ran Nol until the end did she venture ber favorite drop shot and make an occa-sional sortie to the net.

Fifteen mooths since she won Wimbledon and announced her retirement as a singles player. Mrs. King is making her return in this tournament. In be-tween she has played doubles and an occasional singles in World Team Teonis and the Federation Cup.

"I'm overweight," said Mrs. King flatly. "Ten, maybe seven pounds. In my legs. It's always in my legs. I never gain it any other place. It'll go, though. A week or two and I'll get rid of it." In that time, she will decide if she's going to continue. After Phoenix, she will play in the $200,000 Colgate at Mission Hills, Calif. If all goes well, she'll be backo n the circuit.

"It's going to be tougher for me with Billie Jean back," said Miss Evert, "She has that sure instinct so hard to beat. But will she stick at it? I don't know. It depends on her knees."

included in the lame and the halt here was last year's winner, Nancy Gunter, who pulled a hamstring aod had to withdraw.

In second-round matches Terry Holladay defeated Mimi Wiksteht of Sweden, 6-3, 6-2. "She's so big and hits the hall so hard," said 5-foot-4-inch Mimi, a friend of Bjorn Borg. Laura Dupont won from Cynthia Doerner, the Australian who was good enough to make a Mission Viejo final against Miss Evert last year, 6-4, 6-3, mostly because

Mrs. Doerner frelled about decisions and outside noise.

llana Kloss of South Africa defeated Nancy Ornstein, 6-1, 6-0, Miss Kloss's doubles partner, Linky Boshoff, after having survived a three-set battle against Ann Kiyomura last night, woo from Mary Struthers of La Jolla, CaliL, 1 6-1. 6-4.

There were no surprises. America's fifth-ranked Marcie Louie, the inscrutible baseliner from San Francisco, defeated red-headed Carrie Meyer, 6-1, ----7-5, after having been a point from. 0-4 in the second set. "She is so steady," said Miss Meyer, "and you bave to be the same. And I wasn't."

Talking With Matthews Costs Braves $10,000

ATLANTA, Oct. 5 (UPI)-Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn fined the arts Atlanta Braves $10,000 Friday and TS took away their first-round selection io the January free-agent draft for tampering with the San Francisco. Giants outfielder, Gary Matthews, the Braves announced today.

The Giants complaided during a bearing last week that John Alveizos; "" then general manager of the Braves. " contacted Matthews without their permission during the season about play-ing with the Braves. Matthews was playlog out his cootract and is now a free agent.

had sold 57,000 on a season basis, keeping the remainder for visiting teams, the league, newsmen, and for late requests by V.I.P.'s. "The last time we had season's tickets available was 1967," said Palmieri.

"I think that at our peak, our waiting list was the longest in pro football." The 25,000 "accountable seats" that the Super Bowl champion Jets could have sold, if Shea had been big enough, actually represented about 8,000 individuals.

"The average person holds a little more than three seats," explained Pal-mieri. "So we had about 8,000 oames at our peak."

In the last five years, though, he said, "We've had about a 33 percect turnover. Last year we had an'S percent drop but we had enough people on the walting list to replace them."

Poor Home Dates

In addition to a team that has failed to post a winning campaign since 1969, the Jets have been saddled by poor home dates.

Palmieri noled that the New Yorkers bad to play their first four games on the road, in September and early Octothe road, in September and early Octo-ber, "and that, leaves them playing their last games in New York in the middle of December. Also, they come into Shea with an 0-4 record."

Because the Mets have the right to exclusive use of Sbea-a right they exercise-during the baseball season, the Jets are forced out of town at a time when Shea's winds are relatively calm aod the stadium is comfortable for

The Giants lead the N.F.L. in season sales with about 74,000 for their new park. The Philadelphia Eagles are secood at about 64,000 and the Denver Broncos third at 62.000.

Special to The New York Times

N, Minn., Oct. 5-The beating up on Bradshaw with Alan Page, Doug Sutherland and Carl Eller squeezing him like a grapefruit. Uoder another rush from Eller and Page, tinnesota's 17-6 victory here last night was is beat the defending Terry fumbled with Page recovering. That set up the final Minnesota score, moions without Francis was being "saved" for which came on a 44-yard field goal by Fred Cox. Chicago Bears of all s, and that the deng Super Bowl cham-i lost their third game

The same defense sat oo Franco Harris, the Steeler runner who gained a modest 34 yards in 17 rushes. The Vikings and their fans liked that as everyone here remembered bow Harris mangled Minnesota in the 1975 Super Bowl, gaining 156 yards.

Webster's high snaps from ceoter were symbolic of the Steelers' symptoms. In explanation he mentioned "lack of concentration." That's how they are talking these days. Their grand old man, Andy Russell, the line-backer, mentioned the need to "regain a winning attitude," and Rocky Bleier, a business administration major from Notre Dame, said, "we're going through great psychological changes."

The Pittsburgh team has not col-lapsed, bowever. Within its division it is two games behind Cincinnati and Houstoo, but it has two games with each of them, opportunities to get back in contention. Its other opponents, with the exception of Miami, are less than formidable, Cleveland this Sunday, Giants, Kansas City, San Diego and Tampa Bay.

It's like Bud Grant says, "you bave to win your division first before you can start thinking about the Super Bowl." Apart from the Bears, the Vik-ings have little to think about until they meet the Rams again in the December playoffs.

To find out just how good a road car Saab really is, we decided to have an independent testing company compare it with what we thought was the toughest competition around: a BMW 2002.

They ran both cars through a series of performance tests designed to measure those characteristics that make a car a true road car: a skid pad lest to measure G-Force in comening, a sialom course for handling, and, of course, acceleration and braking tests.

The results confirmed what we expected. As the chart shows, the Saab and BMW 2002 are quite a match. The Saab was at least an equal in every category. We weren't surprised, but a number of BMW owners may be.

However, don't just take our word for it. There's only one way to find out how good a car really is. Drive it. We did. And look at what happened.

This handsome, solid pewter medallion---

It's the year of the Yankees and here's a great treat for Yankee fans, young and old-a beautifully crafted pewter medallion in sculptured detail. And on the reverse side-the engraved reproductions of the signatures of all the current players, the coaches and, of course, the manager. Each medallion is hand finished,

Yankee yesterday. Hudspeth will be the interim coach, replacing Rick Forzano. Two weeks ago William Clay Ford, the owner of the National Football League team, had fans! told Hudspeth to get ready for the switch. "We will work a lot harder," said like men, we will talk the situation over and see what needs to be done." this situation, I was unable to over-come certain circumstances. Right now, it's tearing at my insides." Hudspeth, 45 years old, spent eight seasons as head coach at Brigham years. But the Flying Dutchman, coached by Angelo Anastasio, a fullback with the New York Cosmos two years ago, beat New York Tech, 3-0. The 24-year-old Anastasio, in his rookie year as coach, has already done some recruiting and is in the process of building a decent program.

"I spot a lot of good players," Anas-lasio said recently about his recruiting, "but other coaches get the players because they offer more money and have more glamorous programs at this point." Anastasio, who could still make point." Anastasio, who could sum make the grade as a professional player somewhere, is a graduate of Adelphi, Long Island University, also with a rookie coach in Dieter Ficken, has started the season rather well, with the only blemish a tie with Bridgeport.

The Blackbirds, who celebrate their golden anniversary this year, recently defeated Fairleigh Dickinson and City College, two perennial rivels.

College, two perennial rivels. St. Francis, another contender for honors, posted its third shutout and fifth victory of the year against no losses hy defeating New Haven, 2-0. St. Francis is ranked 18th nationally this week, while the Blackbirds beve failed to make the top 20.

Chinese Volleyball Team RoutAmericansatDayton

DAYTON, Ohio, Oct. 5-American men's and women's volleyball teams were soundly tounced by visiting teams from Chine today at the beginning of an 11-dev United States tour.

A spokesman for the Chinese group, which eppeared at the University of Dayton Arena, said other matches were scheduled in Washington, Pasedena, El Paso, Tex., Berkely, Calif., and Hono-lulu, before the team departs for China Oct. 15.

The Chinese women beat a team composed of women from eastern colleges by scores of 15-1, 15-5, 15-5. The Chinese men's team beat their Ameri-can counterparts, consisting of players from Ohio colleges, 15-10, 15-9, 15.4. It was the debut in international play for both American squads. Both Chinese teams have played together since August, prepariog for the American tour.

Nastase Keeps Playing, Winning While Under a 21-Day Suspension fine.

elecis to operate outside thet sphere,

Nastase was fined $1,000 for five separate incidents during his stormy victory over Hans Jurgen Pohmann at the West Side Tennis Club. He was suspended because his total in fines for the year had surpassed $3,000.

Shifting Positions

Originally. Shermad was informed that the suspension would start im-medietely after the Open. Oo Sept. 16, however, four days after the tourna-ment had ended. Sherman received a telegram form the Men's International Professional Tennis Council informing him that Nestase's suspension "will become effective upon a dete to be estab-lished by the council because of the seriousness of the offenses and the possible peoalty."

"We were prepared to take the sus-peosion right after Forest Hills," Sher-man said. "And we so informed David Gray, one of the council's secretaries."

Shemen said that the council then changed its position to accommodate promoters of the Pacific Southwest championships' in Los Angeles, who stood to benefit by Nestase's entry without an immediate suspensioo. Sherman said an agreement was reached between the various parties — the nine-member council, the United States Tennis Association and Nastase -when Nastase waived any appeal and played in Los Angeles. The suspension started Sept. 27, the day after the tournament coded.

There Are Some Penalties

"They didn't act consistently or evenhandedly," Sherman said, "I don't argue with Nastase's behavior, but people who ruo the sport are doiog it very much in pursuit of their own interest. I frankly believe these people abuse the power and would be sitting ducks for an antitrust suit." Briner defended the council's position. Gray had no authority to issue an immediate suspension following Forest Hills, Briner said; e discussion and telegraphic vote among council members after the open approved the start of the suspension for Sept. 27. "It's easy to suggest that Nastase is gelting away with murder by being able 10 play during his suspension." able to play during his suspension." Briner said by phone from Dallas. "But it could cost him in the Grand Prix bonus pool and in qualifying for the Masters at the end of the year, where a lot of money is involved. "Doo't forget." Briner added. "There's never been any machanics before to never been aoy mechanics before to suspend anybody in tennis. Just getting these people together to agree On a formula for a code of conduct has been an important step."

Galindez Keeps Ring Title With Decision Over Smith

JOHANNESBURG, Oct. 5 (UPI)---Vic-tor Galindez defended his world lightheavyweight boxing title today by beat-ing his South African challenger, Kosie Smith, on points over 15 rounds at Jo-bannesburg's Rand Stadium. Galindez, the holder of the World

Boxing Association's version of the title, rarely appeared in trouble and not once bothered to sit down between rounds. The champioo, who has now defended his title in South Africa four times in less than two years, outboxed the challenger, who never macaged to connect with the roundhouse blows-that are his trademark. The decision was unanimous.

Smith has one of the herdest punches in his weight division but tends to lose his poise in the ring. Galindez outboxed Smith and only once, in the fourth round, did the chellenger have the upper hand when he stormed into the champion, slamming telling blows at Galindez's face and body. But the Argentine recovered quickly and had Smith, in turn, backpedaling from a two-fisted attack.

Jackson Pollock's avender Mist" is 7 feet 3 inches by 9 feet 10 inches One of the key works of the artist's classic period

By GRACE GLUECK

The National Gallery of Art in Washington is huying one of the last major Jackson Pollock paintings in private hands, Mist," done in 1950. Gallery officials would oot comment on the price yesterday, but trade sources said it was at least equal to and possibly more than the $2 million announced for Pollock's "Blue Poles," sold in 1973 to the National Gallery of Australia,

The painting was sold by the artist Alfooso Ossorio, of East Hampton, L. L, who bought it for about $1,500—in monthly installments - in 1950 from a Pollock show at the Betty Parsons Gallery in New York City.

Yesterday, Mr. Ossorio would not comment on the sale, transacted, it was learned, through Thomas Gibson, a London dealer. "I'm delighted that it's coming to us—it's a splendid picture," said Charles Parkhurst, assistaot director of the Natiooal Gallery, yesterday. Speaking in the absence of Carter Brown, the gallery's di-rector, he said the gallery had been "interested" in the painting since at least 1971, and had held a number of discussions with Mr. a number of discussions with Mr. Ossorio before "hard bargaining" took place receotly. Several years ago, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, to which Mr. Ossorio had of-fered It for less than $1 millioo, turaed it down.

turned it down.

Poles" sale had "uodoubtedly been a factor in the rising Pollock mar-

Asked to comment yester Mr. Heller laughed and said, " think I should get a commission." Painted two years before "Blue Poles," "Lavender Mist" is con-sidered ooe of the key works of the artist's classic period, when he rhythmically built up the surfaces 1978. of his pictures by dripping commer-cial paint on to canvas to form a sensuous, overall image that gives the appearance of a vastly complicated web. Low-keyed in color, the painting, which measures 7 feet 3 Inches by 9 feet 10 inches, is somewhat smaller than "Blue Poles," and lacks its thrusting vertical lioes. Sbares Top of Oeuvre

But, in the opinioo of some critics, it is a finer paioting than the later work. Speakiog in his capac-ity as an Independent writer on the work of the artist, William Ruthe work of the artist, William Ru-bin, chief 'curator of painting and sculpture at the Museum of Mod-ern Art, said yesterday, "'Lav-ender Mist' shares with 'Autumn Rhythm,' [owned by the Metropol-itao Museum] and 'One' [owned by the Museum of Modern Art] a posi-tion right at the top of Pollock's oeuvre."

Art observers had awalted the sale of the painting to an Institution for many years, and the dis-

Collection and in the Hirshhorn Museum.

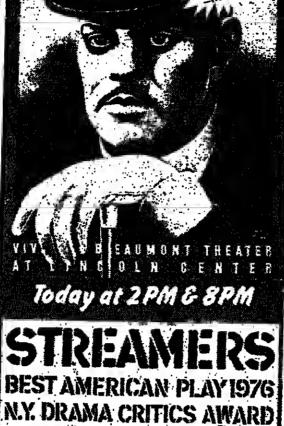

The National Gallery, which has only recently committed itself to the purchase of modern art, is works in the field for its East Building, now under construction and expected to open in March

"There was no high pressure in the sale—we had continued to express interest in the work to Mr. Ossorio," explained Mr. Park-hurst, "and indicated to him that "m'd like to find a denor for the we'd like to find a donor for it, We had been back and forth on price. But no hard bargaioing took place because we didn't think he was actually going to sell. We were very surprised recently wheo he gave us the word to get in touch with his Loodon dealer."

Far Above Previous Prices

Par Above Previous Prices Only three very large "wall-size" works of Pollock's "classic" period exist: "One" and "Autumn Rhythm" in New York, and "#32." a black painting, owned by a Ger-man museum. Trade sources suggested that Mr. Ossorio had used the sale of "Blue Poles," by the dealer Ben Heller in 1973, as a guideline in the sale of "Lavender Mist." Mr. Parkhurst refused to confirm that yesterday, noting only that the price of "Lavender Mist" had increased "year by year," and that the "Blue

More and more, Francesco Rosi, the Italian director of such politically conscious films as "Salvatore Giuliaoo." "Hands Upon the City" and the recent "The Mattei Affair." has come to constructs his movies as if they were jig-saw puzzles from which key pieces must remain missing. Sometimes, as io the case of "The Mattei Affair," this works. But then "The Mattei Affair" was based on the life of an Italian io-dustrialist who died under circumdustrialist who died under circum-stances that have never been satis-factorily explained. In the newest Rosi film, "illustrious Corpses" ("Cadaveri Eccellenti"), the method is self-defeating. It stirs up not speculation but suspicions that the completed picture is artificially made more complex and provide made more complex and provocative than its missing pieces would have revealed it to be.

Until one realizes that one has been manipulated to rather pre-dictable ends, "Illustrious Corpses" is a dazzhing example of fashionably radical Italian film making-elegantly composed, breathlessly paced, photographed in the beau-tiful, drained colors of a landscape in mourning for the sun. It's all so beautiful, in fact, that when you see a long shot of a Sicilian piazza in which everything, including the sky, is the same matching beige, you wouldn't be at all surprised to see a high-fashion model, dressed to the scarlet nines, posing amid heige urchins.

"Illustrious Corpses" is full of individually arresting details, such as a sequence shot in an ancient catacomb and a scene in which Max Von Sydow, as the mad chief justice, explains that when a judge 'celebrates the law," he is like a priest celebrating mass and thus incapable of error. I particularly liked Alaio Cuny as another rotten judge, a man completely, almost beatifically composed except for his wayward left hand. It keeps wanting to misbehave and has to

All of these arresting details and bizarre characters don't eventually add up to much more than an in-dictment of government that's so Lino Ventura stars in the film broad, so general, it has no par-ticular force. The end effect is triv-Art spent on knicknack trious Corpses" is boring. Rather it's acutely disappointing. The art of so many people, including that of Mr. Rosi and his actors, has seems to be Sicily, though it's oever identified, which allows the director to create a fictitious capitalistic social-politi-short films that make up the Film Festival program, collectively entitled "Rites of Passage."

"In the Region of Ice," directed and written by Peter Werner from a short story by Joyce Carol Oates, is more awkward and less skillful in every way. It is also much more affecting. The Oates story is about a nun who is troubled and shakeo, almost to the deaths of her commitment by a beild Honnouala Flanggan as the constructed but flickering oun. The shortest film in "Rites" is "Sun-day Funnies," by Ray Karp. It is a sad attempt to be funny by injectiog sex and sadism into a 1950's story about a girl going to a prom. "Garbage!" one man shouted at a prelimioary screeo-ing, and he was right.

「「「「「「「「」」」」」

"A moving, haunted film about the panic that swept this country during the late 1940's and early 50's." The film's inspiration is the casting of Woody Allen...he is simply carrying the familiar Allen character into another con-text of experience, which endows the character with unexpected and real humanity. "-Vincent Canby, New York Times

'One of the year's best films.''

"Woody Allen is the year's major acting surprise in a surprisingly adroit characteriza-tion of great depth and sensitivity that will undoubtedly shock and sober up his old fans while adding a flock of new ones."

"A brilliant movie. I wept at the end."

"THE FRONT'is both a powerful, sardonic reminder of ugly times and a monument to those who were able to survive them. The film has been perfectly cast."

"A fine, funny and important film."

"THE FRONT' is an exciting movie...a stirring drama encompassing comedy and tragedy...making it a movie almost every-one will find gripping and satisfying."

Tonight at 6 o'clock, two AURAL other literary figures - Ishmael Reed, the poet and novelist, and Victor Hernandez Cruz, the poet-will read from their works at the College of Stateo Island in Richmood Hall at 130 Stuyvesant Place on the St. George campus. There will also be a panel discussion of contemporary American literature, Panelists are faculty members: William Demby, Bertha Harris, Herbert Leib-owitz and Edward Morgolies. Quincy Troupe, also a faculty member and co-editor of "Giant Talk." an anthology of third world writings, will moderate. For information, call 720-3090. There is no admissioo charge.

Martin Bookspan, a music critic, will present a series of lectures and demon-strations on "The Concert" at the 92d Street Young Men's-Youog Women's Hébrew Association at 6:15 P.M. io the Kaufmann Art Gallery at Lexington Avenue and 92d Street. Tonight, assisted by the trumpeter Gerard Schwarz and the flutist Julius Baker, Mr. Bookspan will discuss "The Intimate Mozart." the Y's new series of Mozart's chamber works. A single admission is $3.50. For the series of six events—discussions cum performances—the cost is $15. Information is available at 427-6000.

And a little on the heavier side, the first of a series of forums on southern Africa will be held tonight at 6:30. P.M. at the Countee Culleo Branch of the New York Public Library at 104 West 136th Street between Seventh and Lenox Avenues. "South Africa in Crisis" will be discussed by Judge William Booth; Thomas A. Johnson of The New York Times; Elliott Skinner, chairman of Columbia University's anthropology department, and Ambassador Dramane Ouatara of the Organization of African Unity. All of the forums will be presided over by Wilfred Cartey of City College. Successive forums will be held each Wednesday this month. In-formation is at 281-0700 and admission is free.

VISUAL . It was necessary, some thought five years ago, to form the Institute of Contemporary Hispanic Art to identify Hispanic-American artists and to help them get exposure and recognition in the cultural mainstream of the United States, where third world artists are often overlooked.

Today, to help correct that cultural myopia, the institute, in cooperation with Consolidated Edison, is sponsor-ing a photographic exhibition called "Mujer"—woman. Five women and five men, all Latin, were commissioned to produce the 140 photographs of women ranging in age from a 114-year-old Venezuela great-great-grandmother to an infant nursing in its mother's arms.

Linda Ferrer Rogers, Lisl Steiner. Naomi Castillo Simonetti, Sandra Eleta and Lydia Fisher, The exhibitioo opens today and may be seen Mondays through Saturdays through Nov. 19 in the exhibition area of the lower pleza at the McGraw-Hill Building at 1221 Avenue of the Americas, between 48th and 49th Streets. The time is noon to 6 P.M. and admission is free. For information, call 688-2210.

Another photographic exhibition is being held through Friday from noon to 2 P.M. at the offices of Black Enterprise magazine at 295 Madison Avenue, at 41st Street on the 19th floor. The work of 18 photographers whose pictures have been used in the magazine during its six years of publication is seen in the approximately 90 pictures on display.

MUSICAL The "Mostly Mozart Trio" will perform this lunch hour-from 12:30 P.M. to 1:30-at the Down-town branch of the Whitney Museum of American Art at 55 Water Street. The group consist of Lewis Kirk, has-soonist: David Stanton, clarinetist, and Richard Goldfarb. Admission is free. Information is at 483-0011. FINAL "All that tread/the globe are but a handful to the tribes/that slumber in its bosom./So live, that when thy summoos comes to join/The innumerable caravan which moves/To that mysterious realm, where each shall take/His chamber in the halls of death/Thou go not like the quarry-slave at night,/Scourged to his dungeoo, but, sustained and soothed." These lines from "William Cullen Bryant's "Thanatopsis," sum up the five-day symposium on thanatology, or the study of death, at St. Clement's Church at 423 West 4th Street. Titled, "Death as a Life Force," the program of theater, music, dance, poetry, film, photography and discussion is to ex-plore the many sides of death, to io-vestigate the message and experience that the dying can provide the living

Today's program begins at.7:30 P.M. It includes singing by Suzanne Volk-mann, Lana- Shaw and Star Miralia until 8:30; a 30-minute film, "How Could I Not Walk Amoog Yoo?" a 15minute monologue, "Sarah," by Rabbi Lynn Gottlieb: a 40-minute drama, "The Man With a Flower in His Mouth.*

Admission is $5 for each session, today through Saturday, or SIS for the entire symposium. There is no fee for Sunday's program, which runs from noon to 3 P.M. Information is at 246-7277.

AMERICAN TALK: Where our Words Came From. By J. L. Dillard, 187 pages. Random House. $7.95. In his, introduction to "American. Talk: Where our Words Came from," the linguistics specialist J. L. Dillard describes his latest book as "part of a continuing effort to determine the oricontinuing effort to determine the ori-gins and influences on the language spoken in the United States of Amer-ica." But to this reader of Professor Dillard's earlier books, "Black English: Its History and Usage in the United States" (1972) and "All-Americao Eng-lish: A'History of the English Language in America" (1974), his new book seems more a dominishing effort than a contiouing one. For where in his earlier books Professor Dillard developed and illustrated a thesis of major signifi-

illustration or thesis. Of course, as a tour through the ori-gins of sundry American expressions, "American Talk" is oot completely without its diversions. You can always use as a conversation-filler at your next dincer party the news that when. Theodore Roosevelt made his famous "big stick" remark, he introduced it by saying, "I have always been fond of the West Africao proverb..." and so on. It sheds a little light on Ameri-can cultural history to know that when the boyer los Frazier said "He don't the boxes Joe Frazier said, "He don't phrase [that is, faze] me" before his first fight with Muhammad Ali, he was "bypercorrecting", the tendency of Creole speakers to "'leave out' (or vocalize) the liquid consonants I and r."

From Dutch and Quechua

- No one will be linguistically poorer, to learn that "poppycock", probably comes from the Dutch word papekak, meaning "soft dung"; or that lagni-appe, used fairly generally now for. "something extra." was originally from Quechua, transmitted through the "Gem-bo-speaking Negroes"; or that a "four-flusher" was originally "one who tries to make four cards of the requisite type do the work of five"; or that "skid row" was originally a road in what is oow called Yesler," Way in Seattle along which logs were skidded in the early days of Northwestern lum-bering, and booze, whore and gambling ; establishments collected when the log-ging business became prafitable." No one will be linguistically poorer What's more, Professor Dillard is in-teresting on the subject of disguise-language among blacks-why "ugly" in oor bistory." But too much of "American Talk" is not so interesting. Many of the word derivations are repeats of ones offered in Mr. Dillard's, earlier "All-American English," and these were not all that attention-riveting the first time around (wrangler, from the Spanish caballa-rengo; dally from dar vuelta; and hoosegow, from juzgado, for example). Many others won't come exactly as Many others won't come exactly as stunning news to the reader who has spoken American English for a dozen years or more—or is it a surprise to learn that "put up or shut up," "Til call your bluff," "dealing from the bot-tom of the deck" and "for openers" all probably originated as poker expres-sions: or that "long suit," "in spades" and "trumping one's partner" come from the game of bridge.

Questionable Derivations

Finally, a number of Professor Di-lard's derivations seem questionable, Did the expressions "a bid for fame," "make points with," and "recege" all originate from bridge talk? A simpler explanation for each might

A simpler explanation for each might be its literal meaning. And does it not seem farfetched to reason that the ideal stud-poker hand of "aces back to back" gave rise to the expression used in a gave rise to the expression used in a recent newspaper report that a ooted conductor presented "back-to-back" performances of "Tannhauser" and Schoenberg's "Gurrelieder"? Perhaps Professor Dillard's is trying to com-pensate for a lapse in "All-American English" where he offered every ex-planation for the course-dance sten call planation for the square-dance step call "Dosie dough and a little more dougb" except the obvious one, which would be "dos-a-dos," the French for "backto-back "

As for the thesis underlying "American Talk": Professor Dillard seems to be arguing with detractors of his ear-lier books by saying that speakers of pidgin languages, Dutch and other-tongues did so exert a major influence on American English. But by the time he gets around to informing us that advertisers and politicians have contributed to the Americanization of English—that "soap opera" comes from "the teary dramas that act as come-ons for the soap salesman's pitch" (you didn't know that?)—this thesis seems "somewhat attenuated. Perhaps in "American Talk," Professor Dillard is "Perhaps a little from the rimer of list relaxing a little from the rigors of linguistic scholarship, but then perhaps he is relaxing a little too much.

Debating the Global View

Disappointment with the first Presidential debate may have scaled down public expectations for tonight, when the candidates are scheduled to discuss foreign and defense policies. But the contestants' uninspired performance in Philadelphia does not diminish their responsibility in San Francisco to present the American people with an enlightening and credible impression of their global outlook.

Even with the restrictions that Congress has imposed on Presidential action in the conduct of foreign policy, the occupant of the White House remains dominant in defining America's international role. The candidates thus owe it to the electorate to spell out their perception of that role.

In his efforts to satisfy his party's right wing, President Ford has left the American people confused about the Republican world view, and the Reaganite impact on the Republican platform has compounded that confusion. Mr. Ford's ban on the word "détente" (though ignored hy Secretary of State Kissinger in his recent addresa to the United Nations) is merely one symptom of the doubts and imprecisions that have been allowed to undermine foreign policies for domestic political reasons.

Uncontrolled American arms sales, the danger of nuclear proliferation, unanswered questions concerning the limits of natural resources and the threat of starvation in vast regions of the glohe, the divisions between affluent and poor nations and the faltering leadership in both -all these are themes that test the capacity of an American President to inspire confidence.

It is not enough to respond to these issues with simplistic pledges of military strength. The test is the candidates' capacity to understand and explain that the nation's international influence is inseparable from its domestic health, Failure to revitalize America's cities undermines this country's credibility as a spokesman for free enterprise. Inability to protect the privacy of its own citizens impairs America's role as freedom's protector in the world, Political and corporate corruption at home discredits America's activities abroad.

These are among the issues for tonight's Presidential debate. They cannot be answered with statistics supplied by hehind-the-scenes experts. The electorate is waiting for signs of comprehension, compassion and conviction.

The Women of Ulster

Two brave women from Belfast who have put their lives and those of their families at risk in an attempt to end sectarian violence and restore peace to Northern Ireland are visiting the United States on that mission. Betty Williams, 32-year-old housewire and mother of two, puts it directly:

and the Rev. Ian Paisley's Democratic Unionist party. Mrs. Williams has received threatening letters and a mob recently tried to burn down her house. One Catholic woman in the movement was critically wounded by a shotgun blast and the 17-year-old son of another leader was beaten unconscious by a gang that carved the LR.A. initials into a hand and leg with razor blades.

The Foreign Minister of Ireland, Garret FitzGerald, believes the women's peace marches have helped bring about the "almost total" isolation of both I.R.A. and Unionist terrorists in their respective Ulster communities. Surely it is time for Britain's new Secretary for Northern Ireland, Roy Mason-backed by hoth London and Dublin-and the responsible leaders in both Ulster communities to take advantage of the climate created by these gallant women and to launch a fresh effort to break out of the current political stalemate.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Williams and Miss Corrigan are in the United States appealing for the most effective help this country at present can give-a plea made often by responsible Protestant and Catholic leaders in Ulster as well as by the Britisb and Irish Governments:

Stop contributing money for arms to kill innocent people; stop responding to organizations that claim to be engaged in Ulster relief operations but that are really running guns. It is an appeal that ought to be heeded hy every friend of Ireland in this country-and every friend of humanity.

Economic Development

Governor Carey's decision to entrust primary responsibility for economic policy-making decisions to a small cabinet-level committee of his own appointees reflects continuing uncertainty in coping with what the Governor has correctly identified as New York's number one problem-a declining ecocomy.

The committee is the fourth official group designated by the Governor in slightly over one year to direct the statewide economic development effort, superseding the Economic Development Board, created in August 1975: the Municipal Assistance Corporation, which got the assignment last March, and the Council on the Economy of New York that was named in April to coordinate and direct all public and private efforts to rebuild the economic strength of New York City and State.

The new committee makes some sense because of its more manageable size-about 10 members as compared with 36 on the Council-and because it includes key cabinet members who will be able to weigh development proposals from varying perspectives to produce more balanced policies. For example, any recommendations for tax cuts, such as those that have been vigorously championed by Commerce Commissioner John S. Dyson, will have to be considered in the light of fiscal requirements as propounded by Budget Director Peter Goldmark, who also serves on the committee. Two aspects of the latest shift in development policymaking are particularly troublesome, however. One is the apparent hope of Mr. Carey and some of his advisers that the new, in-house committee can sift out economic proposals from other agencies that might be embarrassing to the Governor. On an issue that is so crucial to their own individual lives, as well as the future of their state. New Yorkers are entitled to receive and consider any proposals that might be put forward from any source. In any event, the Governor cannot evade his own responsibility to make what inevitably will include some tough political choices. Of additional concern is the nature of the new committee, which is composed exclusively of state officials. The Council on the Economy included key development figures from both city and state. How can the committee perform the vital coordinating role that was assigned to the now-languishing Council when there is no representation from the state's predominant city, which is on the verge of announcing its own new economic development plan and administrator?

How to Cut U.S. Defense Spending

To the Editor:

On Sept. 26, a letter to the editor per year for the maintenance of our entitled "What Modest Defense Cuts Can Do's appeared. It was written by David Howard of West Point, N.Y., Mr. Howard chides "liberals" for proposing, even modest cuts in defense spending of $5 billion to $7 billion a year. He implies that to cut defensespending by even a modest amount, we would have to either reduce the munber of men and women in uniform; reduce the size of the civilian complement working for defense; reduce the amount of money spent in the procurement of modern weapons, or reduce the benefits and pay of our Defense Department personnel. I totally disagree that any of the above would have to be implemented in order to cut defense spending. The United States simply does not have the economic power in relation to its major European allies and Japan that it had twenty or even ten years ago, yet it maintains the same troop strength abroad as it did ten years ago. I suggest that we cut defense spending by asking our allies, particularly West Germany and Japan, to pay a certain percent of cost of maintaining American military personnel stationed on their territories. A Woman's Decision To the Editor:

Marcia Norberg's recent letter has it that the only question worth asking in the abortion controversy is "What are we aborting?" There is a controversy over abortion because there is no commonly agreed-upon answer to this question.

Some people regard a fetus as a buman person; others regard a fetus only 25 an incipient person. Moreover, scientists, physicians and theologians are no more in agreement on this subject than are lay persons.

In the absence of any consensus on whether or not the fetus is a person, and since even opinion polls by the Catholic bishops show that 90 percent of Americans would allow abortions under at least some circumstances, it would seem that the best solution to the controversy is to let the Supreme Court ruling on abortion stand. The Court did not impose any particular theory of personhood upon all Americans but left the matter to the cooscience of the individual woman.

The question of whether abortion is right or wrong should be left to the Anker on Aust

Mrs. Williams and Mairead Corrigan, 23, represent the Women's Peace Movement, a nonpolitical, nonsectarian organization that is directed against violence from any quarter. The women launched the movement after three small children were killed and their mother-Miss Corrigan's sister-was critically injured by a runaway car driven by an Irish Republican Army terrorist fleeing from British soldiera in Belfast.

They began with a peace rally last mouth at the spot where the children were killed, and were astonished when 10,000 persons-mostly women-turned up, many of them Protestants entering the Catholic areas of Belfast for the first time since the sectarian violence exploded in 1969. Their next effort brought out 20,000 women, Catholic and Protestant, from all parts of Belfast, some pushing prams, some in wheelchairs, many carrying peace signs and singing, "We are not afraid!" Successful rallies followed in other Ulster cities and towns.

The Peace Movement has been savagely attacked by both extremes: the Irish Republican Army Provisionals

Uncertainty in France

Inflation at home and recurrent devaluation of the franc abroad are the price France has paid since World War II for full employment and the stimulation of a high growth rate, one of the highest in West Europe.

Fourth Republic economists used to call inflation "the health of the state." Even under the more austere Gaullist Fifth Republic, France's inflation rate has been higher than the average in the industrial world. Rapid growth and full employment have been sought to close the industrial gap with West Germany and to contain the Communist challenge at home.

Inflation and devaluation have substituted for the economic discipline, social harmony and equitable taxation successive governments have been unable to achieve. At home, inflation has taken the place of the tax collector, unfairly but effectively reducing purchasing power. Abroad, successive devaluations of the franc have made France's exports competitive, despite rising -costs.

But the rules of the economic game have changed. What President Giscard d'Estaing and his new Prime Minister, Raymond Barre, must contend with in their current austerity program is an inflation fever that has produced, not fast growth, but recessions-and now threatens another. Unemployment, despite partial economic recovery, continues at its highest levels since pre-World War II days.

France remains the only major industrial country in Europe that can, on balance, feed itself, but its economy is no longer insulated from the world. The protected market of the French colonies is gone. Protectionism at home has given way to free trade within the ninenation Common Market. With participation in worldwide trade liberalization measures, French imports now equal a fifth of the national income.

Every rise in import costs, such as the five-fold increase in oil prices, gives a major impulse to the inflation rate which, at 11 percent, is now more than double West Germany's. The recent 10 percent devaluation of the franc has seen rising import costs stimulate inflation at home before exports abroad. With governmentstimulated recovery from the 1974-75 recession sucking in a larger volume of imports, France's payments balance has swung beavily into deficit.

Mr. Barre is now trying to curb oil imports through taxes that raise the price of gasoline to over $2 a gallon. Other tax increases-such as those on personal and corporate income, automobiles and alcohol-are designed to reduce purchasing power, which has outstripped the nation's production. France has been living beyond its means. Over the last two years, the national income has declined by 2 percent, but purchasing power rose by 8 percent. Industrial wages have increased 16 percent in the past year alone.

A price freeze until the end of the year to be followed by a small reduction in some sales taxes is designed to break the wage-price spiral and set the stage for a 6.5 percent ceiling on wage and price increases next year, if Communist and left Catholic trade unions can be persuaded to accept this incomes policy, which is far from certain. The hope is that faster tax write-offs on new plants and equipment may bring about a shift from consumption to productive investment, which has been lagging, in part for fear of a political swing to the left.

Municipal elections are to be held next spring, with parliamentary elections a year later. Polls now show the Communist-Socialist alliance leading the Government coalition. Mr. Barre's goal is continued economic recovery, but at a slower pace.

Success would be likely, if economic factors-even the new ones-were in command. But political factors may be dominant. And the attack on inflation, promising a lower growth rate and continued high unemployment, could intensify, before it relieves, the country's critical problems.

Of Seabed Resources and Utilization.

To the Editor:

In examining the failure of the recent Law of the Sea session to produce agreement on the negotiating text of a treaty, commentators have focused almost exclusively on the rift between the industrially advanced nations and the coalition of third-world countries over the establishment of an international seabed authority. There are additional aspects, bowever, which should be considered in evaluating the condepletion. sequences of non-agreement.

First, the technology of seabed mining is still in the experimental stages, and the economic feasibility and environmental impact thereof have yet to be satisfactorily demonstrated. Because of the costs and uncertainties involved, any mining venture of commercial proportions would probably require government subsidization and insurance similar to that contemplated by Senator Metcalf in a bill rejected by Congress last year. Furthermore, the production of minerals from seabed deposits is an integrated process involving complications beyond those raised by the mining itself, such as the location, cost, energy sources and environmental effects of land-based refineries. That U.S. mining companies are nevertheless prepared to proceed on these terms has failed to compel a third-world compromise, but there is as yet no serious indication that widespread seabed mining will occur to preclude international cooperation in the future. Second, it would be desirable for the U.S. to exercise some degree of control over seabed resources within a prescribed economic zone, similar to that

By John W. Hill I have lived through 21 Presidential campaigns and am now suffering through the 22d. That is nearly onehalf of all the Presidential elections in the history of this nation. I have seen 18 booms and busts in my lifetime and five wars. I was born with a buggy whip in my hand and lived to see a man walk on the moon. , I have been mesmerized by the eloquence of William Jennings Bryan and stirred by Teddy Roosevelt's denuncia-tion of the "malefactors of great wealth." By the time I was 14, these men and the muckrakers of the period had convinced me that big corporations had horns and a forked tail. And now." as we approach another turn of the century, I see business once again locked in a struggle to win credibility -a sitting duck with an open season for the critics-and with good reason.

Business has become big in America in response to the insatiable demand for goods and services of a growing nation. But in the process of giving people what they wanted corporations somehow lost the people. What is big and unfamiliar is mistrusted. Anyone would feel uncomfortable with an elephant in the living room, no matter how friendly it might be. And yet, breaking up big corporations would create chaos. You can't make a thousand hardware stores out of United States Steel. What, then, is the answer?

If there's one thing the years have taught me it is that public opinion is the final, all-controlling force in buman society. Misled and poorly informed, it can come to talse conclusions and do untold damage to business, the economy and the nation.

Businessmen must understand the inner mind of the public. The world of corporate management, of millions in sales, of profit and loss, is not the world of the average person. The vocabulary of that world is not his or her vocabulary. The terms "bottom line" and "capital formation," so important to corporate management, are the problems of "making ends meet" and saving for a new, car or TV. There are 86 million people on pay-rolls in this country, many working directly or indirectly for corporations. The typical working person thinks in terms of his or her job, his or ber take-home pay, his or her cost of living, and other problems and satisfactions that go to make up his or ber self-interest. Business must reach people in terms touching that very self-interest or they simply won't listen.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1976

engraving by Fritz Etchenb

I realized the importance of reaching that need each other is absurd. It can the individual's inner universe one evening as I listened to a broadcast of Bach's "Passion of St. Matthew" mass. One chorus of people were hurling insults at Christ while another sang these words:. "We love him because he shares our sorrows." They didn't say he gave them anything or did anything for them. But be understood their problems. What this conveys is the deep craving in people for someone to understand their concerns. I wonder if there isn't a lesson for corporate management in this.

Unfortunately, business, for the most part, also has a blind spot when it. comes to the main conduit for reaching people. An adversary situation bas de-veloped between corporations and the media. Business thinks the media are hostile toward it while the media think busicess is unresponsive and secretive. In our sophisticated society, the existence of such a situation between two vital elements of society and should be corrected. Desperately needed is a whole new thrust toward corporate candor. Top management can no longer shirk its responsibilities for synchronizing and linking the vital elements of policies, performance and communications. Deceptions, nondisclosures and obscure double talk must give way to openness, forthrightness and clarity in matters of public concern.

If public opinion is misinformed, misled or lied to, it can be a destructive force, Business must show, by policies and acts in the public interest and by speaking out clearly and convincingly to people, that It is worthy of their support and confidence. In my opinion, the survival of private enterprise will depend on how well this job is done....

By Robert Skidelsky.

LONDON-The year 1776 is famous for the Declaration of Independence ond for the publication of Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations." Both were fundamental expressions of the movement toward individual liberty.

The American colonists attacked not just political control from London, but the system of economic control that made it necessary.

Adam Smith argued what merchants and entrepreneurs were starting to feel: that state control obstructed the new opportunities for expanding wealth and profits. In the century that followed, the state shrank and wealth came to be produced and distributed largely without political interference. Politics and economics were considered separate spheres.

Since the 1870's, governments have been pushed back into economic life. There are five reasons for this.

Business monopoly. The concentration of capital in a few hands has led to growing demands for political regulation to protect the public interest. In the United States, this agitation started in the Progressive era.

War. Two world wars and the cold war bave permanently increased defense spending and thus the state'e ability to affect economic life. 'Modernization. "Backward" countries have resorted to planning in order to bring their plant and living standards up to the level of "successful" coun-

Social justice. Increasingly, electorates have expected governments to abolish inequalities resulting from ethnic or class domination, or produced by a market system weighted toward big business.

Economic security. As firms grew in size, and living standards improved, so tolerance for economic disruption markedly diminished at the precise moment when the spread of industrialization was increasing competition. Hence the call on governments to guarantee full employment, provide unemployment benefits and subsidize big companies.

As a result of these pressures, the government's role in economic life has greatly increased, Indeed, in the 20th century, the government and the market have functioned as joint directors of national economies.

The philosopher of this co-existence, was John Maynard Keynes, who died thirty years ago. He delimited very clearly the roles of government and market. The government would be responsible for securing "a volume of output corresponding to full employment." The market would continue to hitherto. It seemed like a very neat division of labor. Also, it had a very. important political recommendation. If, through Keynesian measures, economic activity could be kept going perma-nently at a high level, the demand for redistriboting wealth (socialism) could be expected to atrophy.

In the last few years, the Keynesian philosophy has come to seem increasingly inadequate. First, Keynes overestimated the possibility of rational economic management by democratic governments. Governments - are toomuch penetrated by, dependent on, or at the mercy of, outside forces to be eble to make their economic will prevail . . .

In current jargon they are "overloaded." They can easily inflate, but find it difficult to deflate. In West Germany and the United States, the Government has more economic power than in Britain because tolerance for unemployment is bigher. This is because the main burden of unemployment falls on migrant workers in West Germany and blacks in America.

- C-

Second, by abolishing business depressions Keynesian governments have . also, abolished the chief mechanism for resolving micro-economic ineffi-ciencies. This has forced them into more and more planning to compensate for the decay of the old "disciplines of the market." Thus the Keynesian division of labor between government and market has broken down. Markets have been steadily shrinking.

Third, Keynes underestimated the extent to which the moral legitimacy of capitalism would decline. The chief defense of capitalism today is not that capitalists deserve their great rewards but that to interfere with them would destroy liberty. But this is a weak argument against the demand for more equality.

In these ways the political economy of Keynes, and of the West, is coming unstuck. In Britain, the least successful of the modern Keynesian states, the choices are being posed with unaccustomed frankness. Some want to get the state largely, or completely, out of economic life, as Adam Smith recommended 200 years ago. Others say the only way to get the economic machine working again is for the state to take over completely, strangling the private sector in planned stages.

.921 What is actually bappening, accord-. . Mas ing to many observers, is something different: the growth of a corporate state, "fascism with a human face," as it has been wittily described if true, it is a strange fate for the coun- try of Adam Smith, and the co-victor of 1945.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5-John W. Dean strikes again. The former White House counsel's detailed and accurate sestimony before the Senate Watergate Committee in June, 1973, started Richard Nixon out of the White House and H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman on their way to the grand jury. Now a freelance journalist, Mr.

Dean has ruined Earl Butz by recounting the latter's horrid racist anecdote to the readers of Rolling Stone

Like a flash of lightning above a haunted bouse; the brief return of John Dean to the center of events in Washington serves to remind everyone that the Ford Administration is run by the old Nixon gang, the hard-core loyalists who stuck with him through every lying twist and turn to the day of his resignation. As each new piece of evidence about his criminal involvements became known, they stood and brazenly defended him.

The most important defender was Mr. Ford himself, Speaking in Muncie, Ind., on July 24, 1974, only two weeks before the Nixon resignation, Mr. Ford told a Republican audience: "Tve watched the [impeachment] proceedings unravel as they have beginning. in 1973. I've read the testimony. I've talked to people who are involved in the House Judiciary, Committee. "I can say from the bottom of my. heart that the President of the United States is innocent. He is right." At that late date, Mr. Ford was still dismissing the whole thing as mostly a partisan frame-up. "Not all,-but a substantial amount of the effort against the President is an attempt to try to undo the election results of 1972, and don't forget it."

A week earlier, Rabbi Baruch M. Korff had held one of his rallies here to demonstrate support for Mr. Nizon. One speaker was Secretary Butz. Another was Mrs. Anne Armstrong, then a top-ranking White House aide. The a top-ranking with them Mrs. Arm-Times reported. "When Mrs. Arm-strong, a counselor to Mr. Nixon, cas-tigated the press, she received a stand." ing ovation." ng ovation." After he became President, Mr. Ford rewarded Mrs. Amstrong with the ambassadorship to Great Britain. An other Nixon statwart was George Bush, the G.O.P. national chairman. Mr. Ford rewarded sim with the an-bassadorship to China and more recently, the directorship of the CLA. Alexander M. Mr. Ford's political "kitchen Cabinet" consists of men who were in the White House bunker trying to save Mr. Nixon in his last desperate months-Dean Burch, William Timmons, Melvin Laird and Rogers Morton. Mr. Ford's agent in the South is old Nixon hand Harry Dent. To, hold, Texas, he is relying upon John Connally. Only two major officials resigned over Watergate-Elliot Richardson and William Ruckelshaus, Bresident Ford fobbed. off Mr. Richardson with the relatively unimportant job of Com-merce. suppress any embarrassment they may have felt or any convictions they may have held. As Congress, the courts and the special prosecutorclosed in on Mr. Nixon, they went on whistling "Hail to, the Chief." Their crassness has been rewarded. Mr. Ford_kept them in office for another two, years and the nation may now keep them in for another four.

The ultimate expression of the old gang's arrogance was the selection of Senator Bob Dole-Mr. Nixon's favorite hatchet man-for Vice President. Four years ago, Senator Dole led the propaganda attack on the press for its attempts to get at the truth about Watergate. As recently as May, 1974, after most of the tapes bad become known, Senator Dole said he would welcome Mr. Nixon's help in his campaign for re-election.

Why worry about political ethics? A party that would accept Bob Dole as its Vice-Presidential candidate and a nation that would huy the idea that Geraid Ford has cleaned house in Washington are a party and a nation that would obviously believe anything. As the sage of San Clemente sits the setting sun and fabricates his memoirs; he must occasionally rub his hands and smile a-rare saturnine smile at the thought that Jerry and Bob and all the old gang may actually get away with it. It does rather confirm his hero P. T. Barnum's wise saying: "No man ever went broke underestimating the taste of the

The settlemant came as the economic noose oo the strikars, the company, the company's suppliers and their employees was beginning to tighten.

Drain on Family Finances

The strikers were facing their second full week without pay checks. Although many had saved as much money as they coold io aoticipation of a strike, the $40 to $50 a week they began drawing late last month was beginning to result in a drain on family finances. In the aggregate, it was estimated that the strikers were losing nearly $50 million a week lo wages.

From the beginning, the auto talks and the strike focused on old-fashloned laborunion Issues: job security, income security aod wages. These concerns were lent urgency by the 1974-75 recession, which cut deepty into many union members' financial security.

Major Issue in the Strike

The No. 1 issue of the talks, and the one that more than any other was said to have precipitated the strike, was the one iovolving reduced working time. Foremost among the U.A.W.'s income security demands was the call for the layoff-benefit fund to be strengthened and the demand for some kind of pay-ment to ease the burden of retired workers.

To Dr. Dobkin, whose boyish face. and soft voice at first glance do not. seen to go with his position as presi-dent of the Committee of Interns, and Residents, the strike is a difficult one because it has a voilosophical hase. It Residents, the state is a philosophical base. It, is, to him, a statement of where the practice of medicine should be going. "What we're saying is that we want to make medicine less of an industry and more of an art and social service," he said. "You can't practice medicine in a vacuum. It's not a pure science. It is as much a social undertaking as a scientific one." Calls a Union Vital

In order to do that, Dr. Dobkin says, it is necessary for young doctors to be organzed so that they are in a position to exert pressure. Without the recognition of their union-the issue in the strike-he said the doctors were powerless.

"I always thought that medicine was as much a social undertaking as a scientific one," he said. "That's one of the reasons I went to medical school in the first place. Dr. Dobkin became involved with the committee four years ago while he was an intern at Montefiore Hospital in the Bronx, Since he was elected president, the Committee's role has evolved from that of a union pressing for salaries and benefits into a group demanding social change. "What interests us are hospital condi-tions and patient care," said Dr. Dob-kin. "If we were only demanding money, the hospitals would be happy to deal with us."

Dr. Dobkin said that one of the problems with building a union on this prin-ciple is that "people are spathetic. They prefer rather to sit back and complain about how things are rather than join together to do something about them."

But yesterday, Dr. Dobkin said he felt proud.

"When I arrived at Albert Einstein at 7 A.M. 1 saw a lot of young doctors who were demonstration they felt dig-nity and would fight back," he said. Dr. Dobkin, who mainteined an exterior of organized assurance even during the final stages of preparation for the strike, said he was confident that strike would be over in a number the could obtain their loans from the school itself, which, it is hoped, will end a practice criticized in Senate hearings this year.

Since most defaults occur during the first year of college, tha bill would re-duce to $1,500 from $2,500 the amount a student could borrow during his first year of college, but would retain lifeloog maximums of $7,500 for an under-graduate education and $15,000 for graduate education.

The bill would postpone for a yearwhile Congress conducts a study-a provision limiting the ahility of students to avoid repaying loans by claim-ing bankruptcy, which is believed to be only a small fraction of the 18 percent default rate among the $9.5 billion in outstanding loans.

Financial Aid Officers

Uoder the bill, colleges that lend money would be required to hire and-or train financial aid officers, and the bill has a new "coosumer," almost truth-inlending provision to make students more aware of the responsibilities they incur wheo receiving guaranteed studeot loans.

The bill would also continue the $400 million-a-year National Direct Student Loan Program, which the Ford Administration, like others before it, tried to kill. The 15-year-old program has leat some 800,000 studeots $3.5 hillion in Federal money, which they can often work off in special community-service jobs.

Next January, the State University of New York and Moscow State University will begin exchanging faculty mem-bers and graduate students, the first such exchange hetween an American and a Soviet university.

The exchange agreement, expanding a similar program for undergraduate students begun in 1974, was sigoed this week in Moscow.

The new two-year program is being conducted under an educational and cultural exchange agreement between the two countries.

Graduate students, nonteaching and post-graduate fellows and junior and senior faculty members will be involv-ed. Ernest L. Boyer, chancellor of the ed. Ernest L. Boyer, chancellor of the State University, said the first group of students would leave by the spring semester of 1977 to study Russian lan-guage and literature. Soviet students, who will go to the State University' center at Albany, will specialize in the social sciences American history cult social sciences, Americao history, cult-ture, politics and economics, Dr. Boyer said.

Does the Board of Education have $40 million earmarked for teacher pay increases that it should use instead for rehiriog critically needed staff in New York City?

The Educational Priorities Panel, an umbrella organization of 16 civic, and aducation groups, says yes. The Board of Education says no. And the United Federation of Teachers, on whom any agreement for such a move would heavily depend, says the union has a contract it expects the ceotral board to live up to.

A contract agreement between the board and the teacher's union was reached in September, 1975 after a brief strike, but it has not been approved by the Emergency Financial Control Board, ao important third party. The whole issue has been raised again because the Educational Priorities Panel, in a news conference, said the school board abould use $40 million to rehire teachers.

The group said the board was not exercising authority that had been given it by the Control Board. In a statement, the Board of Education replied that no such authorization had been given, that the charges were not new and thst any "onilateral" allocation action woud be "irresponsible" because of the agreement with the union.

Meanwhile, talks between the union and the central board continued on a wage deferral agreement, which is required by the cootrol board for ap-proval of the 1975 pact.

50 L family/style ______ THE NEW YORK TIMES. Food Day WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1976 and Ch From a Tiny Kitchen, Indian Dishes in the Mogul Traditi By CRAIG CLAIBORNE

"In our day-to-dey food," Ayesha Singh was saying recently, "there is always the taste of Mogul dining." As she spoke, Mrs. Singh quickly, deftly and with utmost caution applied small squares of varek - the Indian word for silver foil - to the surface of the rose-petal ice cream that she had prepared and offered in a frozen silver bowl. After the foil, of such fragile nature it all but defies the laws of gravity, she added almonds that were slivered, chilled, blanched and, as a final fillip, a scattering of fresh rose petais.

The ice cream - known in India as kulfi -- is, by all accounts, one of the most dalicate and exotic frozen desserts we've evar known.

Mrs. Singh, a woman of great ele-gance, sensitivity and style, is the wife of a late brigadier in the Indian Army. She had come to New York to visit her only child, Reeva, and while hare, acted briefly as a friendly consultant for Raja, an establishment on Second Avenue (oear 63d Street) that specializes in the frozen desserts and other chilled sweets of India.

Grand Assortment

When we learned that Mrs. Singh, who is from Pakistan but who now lives in Delhi, was in town, we telephoned for an interview, and to our delight she invited us to sample a grand assortment of Indian specialties miraculously prepared in her daughter's spacious and handsome one-room apart-ment with a kitchen that seemed tiny even by New York standards. Off the range and out of the oven came shahi hiryani, a variously spiced chicken and rice casserole, shahi pasanda, a fork-tender lamb creation flavored with cardamom; and a very special dal made with small, black lodian beans.

Desserts included, in addition to tha ice cream, an incredibly rose-petal suntle and delicious creation made with a rich chilled milk custard spooned over fried pieces of bread with pistachios and almonds.

"All of these dishes are handed down, generation by generation, from the kitchens of the Mogul empire." she said The Moguls, she informed us, came to the north of India during the 16th century from southern Russia, Persia and Turkey, bringing with them the food inspirations of their native lands. These were adapted to the numerous spices that were found in India. We noted that several of the dishes on that evening bore the name shahi, and she explained that the word meant royal.

Recipe Is Centuries-Old

The recipe for the rose-petal ice cream must be huodreds of years old, and in the old days when there were lots of servants it was made by stirring raw milk by hours by hand," Mrs. Singh said. "Today, 1 reduce the milk by cooking it in double hoilers. By the way, rose perfume was first distilled by the wife of the third Mogul Emperor, Noorjehan Jehangir, Noorjehan

means light of the world. "Most of the Mogul emperors were great gournets, including Akbar the Great, who consolidated northern and central India as the Mogul empire." Mrs. Singh said. "The recipe for shahi biryani, the rice with chicken, is said to be that of Shah Jehan, who huilt the Taj Mahal.

"Biryani can be made with almost any kind of meat---with mutton, lamb, fisb and so on, but Mogul-style is always with chicken."

Saris in the Kitchen

Mrs. Singb's kitchen pantry is stocked with a quantity of garam masala, a powdered blend of cardamom, cloves, peppercorns and cinnamon. We were fascinated to learn that turmeric, the spice that is the base of most com-mercial curry powder in America, has no place in her kitchen. "I dislike the flavor," she said firmly.

Mrs. Singh, who dresses in resplen-dent saris, even in the kitchen, stated that she had learned cooking from her grandmother, who supervised her fam-ily's large kitchen staff, "She spent most of her time in the kitchen, and I was the eldest grandchild. I simply trailed in her footsteps."

Her daughter, Reeva, told us, "Most people look at her and say. 'I'm sure she doesn't know how to boil an egg.

Kulfi Gulah

(Rose petal ace cream) 8 cups raw milk, available in some health food stores

- cups heavy cream 11/2 cups heavy rose syrup, available in bottles in shops where Indian delicacies are sold; see note
- pods of green cardamom; see note tablespoons rose water
- cup slivered, blanched almonds Varek (sliver foil) for garnish; see note
- Rose petals for garnish.

1. Place the raw milk in a doubla boiler (a double boiler may be improvised by placing a metal bowl inside a close-fitting and slightly larger container with boiling water beneath the metal bowl). Cook, uncovered, over boiling water until reduced by half. See that the water beneath milk is replenished as it evaporates.

2. Add the heavy cream and rose syrup. If two double boilers are used, add half the cream and syrup to each. Continue cooking about 10 minutes longer. 3. Strain the mixture and let cool,

4. Crush the cardamom and discard the husks. Continue crushing the seeds. Add the rose water. Stir this into the rose milk mixture.

5. Pour the mixture into a bowl and place in the freezer. When the mixture is almost thoroughly frozen, stir it with a whisk until creamy. Continue to freeze until it has the consistency of ice cream. 6. Meanwhile, as the ice cream freezes, drop the almonds in basin of ice water. Let stand until chilled.

 Garnish the rose ice cream with varek (silver foil).
 Drain the almonds well and scatter them over the foil. Garnish with a few rose petals and serve.

Yield: 8 or more servings. Note: The ingredients for this disb are available in sbops around Manhattan that specialize in Indian delicacies. One such shop is Spice and Sweet Mahal, 135 Lexington Avenue (at 29th Street), 693-0900.

The cooks' dishes were intended only for the palates of the six food experts who were judging the competition: Craig Clai-borne, Pierre Francy, James Beard, Helen McCully, Maurice Moore-Betty Waldorf kitchens from the celebrity was one of the few who preferred not to cooks' recipes.

One of the most fawned-over-guests was Jack Nicholson, who attended strictly as an oolooker, oot a celebrity cook. His definess, he indicated with a smile, didn't include the kitchen. Mrs. Bloomingdale'brought along her own gourmet cooking pans from California with her own nutmeg, "because don't trust the nutmeg in the East." Mrs. Bloomingdale, who was wearing a black sweater and green taffeta skirt by Adolfo, refused to answer questions about her recebt scrape with United States Customs officials over failure to report the full value of some dresses she had brought from France. Later. however, when her oven refused to work and she had to use Robert L. Green's nearby, she said: "That seems to be the way things are going these huded Marion Javits, A slight altercation developed when Marion Javits, who is sharing a refrigerator with Deoa Raye, placed her ice cream roll on top of Miss Kaye's. chocolate mousse Normandy, When Miss Kava tried to remove the roll from the mousse, Mr. Javits replied: 'You can't do that. It will ruin the shepe of my ice cream roll, and I'll lose points."

The problem was solved when waiters rolled out a separate refrigerator for Miss Kaye's chocolate mousse.

Deoa Kaye, the writer and daughter of Danny Kaye, said she chose her "favorite personal dessert" for the competition; chocolate mousse Nor-mandy. "It's one of the few desserts that will get me off the dessert wagon," said Miss Kaye, who is ofteo dieting. "It's semisweet chocolate with roasted almonds shot all the way through it." Six of the celebrity cooks worked in pairs, including Joel and Jo Grey, who made a Mexican dish called quesadillas: Nao Kempner and Pat Buckley, who made lemon soufflé, and Lyn Revson and Lee Guber, the theatrical producer, who prepared chicken capriccio. "Lee is the gourmet cook, there's no two ways about it," Mrs. Revson said. "We cook a lot together, but he's the one who knows what he's doing." Jean Tailer, the peripatetic partygo er, made what seemed like one of the simpler dishes: fruit compote. She said she was supposed to have made "a very complicated" turban of sole with crabmeat mousse and sauce Joioville; but by the time she got all the oecessary: utensils together, she found it would "take a truck" to cart them all to the Waldorf.

"I really do all of the cooking at home," insisted Mrs. Tailer, who wore a multicolored tunic and pants outfit that Adolfo had whipped up for her; along with a matching turban to keep her hair out of the food.

"Lots of us cook these days," she added. "It's so difficult to get cooks nowadays. But I really do eojoy it. It satisfies all my creative bents."

Cat Tongues and then sticking them to the inside walls of the mold, stand-ing upright. Be careful not to leave gaps or spaces. Make the following mousse and fill the lined mold with it. Break the chocolate into small pieces and melt it in a small heavy pan together with the run over a low heat, stirring constantly. When the chocolate is melted, take it off the heat and cool, but do not let the chocolate set.

3. In an electric-mixer bowl, cream the butter until it is light and creamy, then add ½ cup sugar and beat well. Add the egg yolks, one at a time, almonds and, finally, the cooled chocolate.

4. In another bows, whip the heavy cream until it begins to thicken, then add the 1/2 cup sugar and the vanilla bean. Continue beating until the cream is stiff enough to hold its shape.

5. Put one-quarter of the cream aside for decorating and fold the rest, for gether with the beaten egg whites, huo the chocolate mixture. Pour into the prepared mold. Cover with transparent wrap and freeze for 2 hours.

Not All the Kitchen Art Need Be From the Stove

By RUTH ROBINSON

Art in the kitchen? Why not if you have the space. Alan and Evelyn Stoltman are all for it and offer any number of possibilities at their Gallery Verve.

From witty black and white lithographs created by Cocteau for a gourmet friend at $110 each to an oval whie platter with yellow and blue fish design by Picasso for $1,250 that would, in Mrs. Stoltman's opinion, "be 'super against wood or brick."

Then there are glass decanters designed by Dali, in a limited edition, of course, as is the Picasso ceramic. The set of three in three different blues is ornamented with surrealistic scenes and priced at $185.

Also in the culinary line would be a small etching of a green pear sprouting a delicate pink rose by René Magritte, the Belgian surrealist, and a spicily colored cross-section of an onion by Alexander Calder at $95. More voracious appetites might relish a larg-er Calder lithograph of three onions at $750, while romantics might prefer Renoir's "Orange Vender," an engraving tagged at $185. There also are the Tahitian menus with which Paul Gauguin defrayed food and bar bills when down on his luck. There are 11 in the series, reproduced in limited editions and hand-colored to recapture the liveliness of the original vatercolors.

The scope of the gallery, which ia at 145 West 55th Street, extends beyond the kitchen, with something for almost every taste. Prices go from $45 to $10,000 and include frames where applicable. Once the dance season is under way at nearby City Center the will shift to prints and sculptures with appeal for balletomanes.

The Stoltmans, specializing in the School of Paris, carry graphics by such artists as Braque, Chagall, Degas, Dufy, Lautree and Miró as well original primitive paintings.

Omelets are being served up in rec-tangles rather like blintzes these days instead of in the traditional half moons thanks to a new pan put out by the Creative Cookware Company. Apart from the esthetics of the new look, the new pan aims to simplify the tricky process of onelet preparation. The se-cret lies in the rectangular shape, which allows the rolling of the onelet rather than the usual folding and flipping steps. The 10-by-6-inch pan is divided into two compariments. The filling goes into the section nearest the handle and, by tilting the pan slightly, the individu-al omelet can be rolled with a spatula over the center divider to the end of the pan and transferred onto a plate. Made of a cast aluminum alloy for even beating, with no-stick Rockbot-tom coating and a hardwood handle, the pan sells for $15 at Aluman's and Macy's An instruction booklet is in cluded.

Another new product is the so-called bagel slicer designed for those fool-hardy souls who insist on cutting to-ward themselves and often end up ward themserves and orten end up nicking their fingers. Similar in principle to a carpenter's miter box, the slicer surrounds the bagel on three sides with Lucite and anchors it firmly to the bottom with two little metal prongs. Slits on each side allow a knife to slide down easily to the bottom to the bottom. The sixth floor housewares department at Bloomingdale's will, for $5.50, supply the gadget, which could double as a paper napkin holder when bagels, aren't on the menu. You supply the knife yourself.

The Pot-Lid-Parker is exactly as its name implies, a place to park a lid-and a spoon. Quite useful when there's a saucepan of stew simmering on the stove and convenient, too, for serving up a casserole at an informal meal It certainly protects counter and table top from drips.

The Pot-Lid-Parker consists of a 7½-inch by 5½-inch piece of hardwood with inserts holding chrome-plated spoon rest, lid stand and drip pan, all of which can be removed and thrown into the dishwasher after use.

Culinary Arts at 133 East 65th Street carries the gadget, which is priced at $6.95.

30% FEWER CALORIES THAN WHITE

Imagine! A bread with 30% fewer calories than white! Equally as remarkable, Fresh Horizons has more fiber than any other bread, almost any other food. And it tastes delicious.

Compared to whole wheat bread, Fresh Horizons has five times the fiber-400% more. One slice even equals the fiber in a serving of 100% All-Bran Cereal. Yet Fresh Horizons gives you 30% fewer calories than enriched white bread. Incredible? Yes! In a nationwide survey of doctors, 3 out of 5 said they would recommend this kind of bread for its fiber alone.

No other bread makes all these claims!

A Federal Guide Rat New Cars on Roomin

By FRANCES CERRA

One foreign small-car menufacturer used to run an ad that showed a great Dane and two children crammed into the back seat. To most American famihes, the scene may have been funny, but it was not one they wanted re-created in their own driveway.

Now the trend toward smaller, lighter vehicles has some of these people won-dering, to judge hy letters to the Feder-al Government, whether the day may come when a cross-country trip with the children and the family pet may resemble the passengers in the ad.

Mindful of this concern, officials at the Federal Energy Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency have published a booklet that rates new cars according to their interior passenger and trunk space. The booklet -11 million have been printed,-should be available, free, from all newcar dealers.

What the booklet shows is that a small car does not necessarily have to be cramped inside and that within the same class of car there can be substantial differences in interior space. The booklet indicates the interior measure-ments in cubic feet for trunk space, but for the passenger compariment lists ao index composite number re-flecting shoulder room, among other things.

Subcompacts Are Rated

Take, for example, three of the most popular subcompacts. Chevrolet's Chevette rates at 76 for the passenger compartment (which includes froot and back seats) and 9 for the trunk. American Motors' Gremlin's measuremeots are $1 and 9, while Ford's Maverick is substantially larger, at 87 and 12.

The booklet, in fact, classifies sedans as subcompact, compact, midsize and large entirely oo the basis of interior space rather than oo weight and length, the traditional method.

"The 1976 Energy Policy and Coo-servation Act required that cars had to be labeled not only with a mileage. rating, but with a range of fuel economies for comparable cars," explained Diane Pirkey, a program analyst with the Federal Energy Administration and one of the authors of the booklet.

"But what are comparable cars? We decided to use interior volume as the defining factor because our analysis showed that weight and length will be changing in future cars. General Motors has already started downsizing its cars in order to be in compliance with fueleconomy requirements for 1978."

But using this classification system, the Cadillac Seville, for example, ends up listed in the booklet as a compact along with cars such as American Motors' Hornet and Pacer. The compact category has a combined passenger compartment and trunk space index between 100 and 110.

However, overall, General Motors' sborter full-size cars compare favorably with Ford's longer cars, a fact that bas understandably upset Ford executives. Donald F. Kopka, executive direc-tor of eogineering administration and industrial design at Ford's design center, called the booklet's index "arbitrary" and possibly "misleading" be-cause "it does not give sufficient Chevrolets as roomier than the Fords. Miss Pirkey said her agency did not believe that counting hip room would hav made a significant difference in the ranking of the cars.

A Baby Food Issue:

Consistency vs. Content

If the babies of America mess up their chins during dinner and turn their food ioto finger paints, that is not the fault of the Gerber Prodocts Company. For 35 years, Gerber bas prided itself on making baby food that is just the right consistency. That means, according to George Purvis, re-search manager of nutritioo for the company, that the food does not drib-hle or run, but stays easily on a spoon and yet is not so thick it has to he chemed chewed.

chewed. Mr. Purvis discussed the company's elaborate efforts to achieve the perfect consistency, including the use of a ma-chine called a consistometer in its plants, in the context of two oew pro-posed regulations from the United States Read and Durat de the United States Food and Drug Administration. The proposals would require two changes in baby food labeling. First, the perceotage cootent of the ingrdi-ents mentioned in the name of a baby food would have to be stated, in large type, on the froot of the package. For

Boneless Shoulder

BOOK, By Morgaret and G. Franco Romagnoli. 272 pages. Atlantic-Little, Brown. $8.95.

All too often vegetarian recipes bear no relation to any traditional style of cooking, but are instead created by faddists or nutritionists who grind many axes at once. The results, both in cookbooks and vegetarian restaurants, are dishes that sometimes taste delicious, but more often seem slightly peculiar. Yet every national cuisine has a number of excellent nonmeat dishes that can be drawn upon by vegetarians, none more so than the Italian cuisine. This small cookbook written by the

- 21/2 pounds (approximate) assorted vegetables, such as:
 - medium.or 2 small eggplants
- 4 tomatoes
- -1 big potato
- 2 medium zucchini
- 1/2 to 1/4 cup olive oil
- 1 cup unseasoned bread crumbs

3 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley I teaspoon salt

Freshly ground pepper

3 eggs 6 ounces whole-milk mozzarella;

- shredded.
- 1. Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

2. Cut the eggplant leogthwise into 1/2-inch thick slices. Salt generously and let them stand while you are preparing the rest of the disb.

3. Peel the tomatoes and cut them into wedges. Peel the potatoes and cut them into very thin slices. Take the ends off the zucchini and slice them into rounds

4. Oil an oven-proof casserole light-ly, and sprinkle in enough bread crumbs to coat the inside (about 3 tablespoons).

5. Chop together the basil and parsley and mix with the rest of the bread-crumbs, ½ teaspoon of the salt, a twist remaining 1/2 teaspoon of salt.

7. To assemble: Put all the tomatoes in the bottom of the casserole. Dribble on 2 to 3 tablespoops of the olive oil. Sprinkle, with 4 or 5 tablespoors of herbs and breadcrumbs. Add about one-fourth of the mozzarella. Spoon about 3 tablespoons of the beaten egg over the layer.

8. Make a second layer, using all the potato slices. Sprinkle on the oil, herbs, hread crumbs, cheese, as before, and spoon oo 3 more tablespoons of the egg. 9. Make a third layer of vegetables, using the zucchini slices and proceed as before.

10. Now scrape the salt off the eggplant slices, pat them dry with paper towel, and arrange as a top layer. Sprinkle with oil, pour on the last of the eggs, and sprinkle with the remain-ing herbs and bread crumbs.

11. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 minntes

Benjamin Franklin, the inventor, wanted to name the turkey America's national bird. Someone else suggested the eagle. Which is just as well because "turkey" has come to mean more than a big bird. It's a term often used to describe a big flop.

19 365 1026

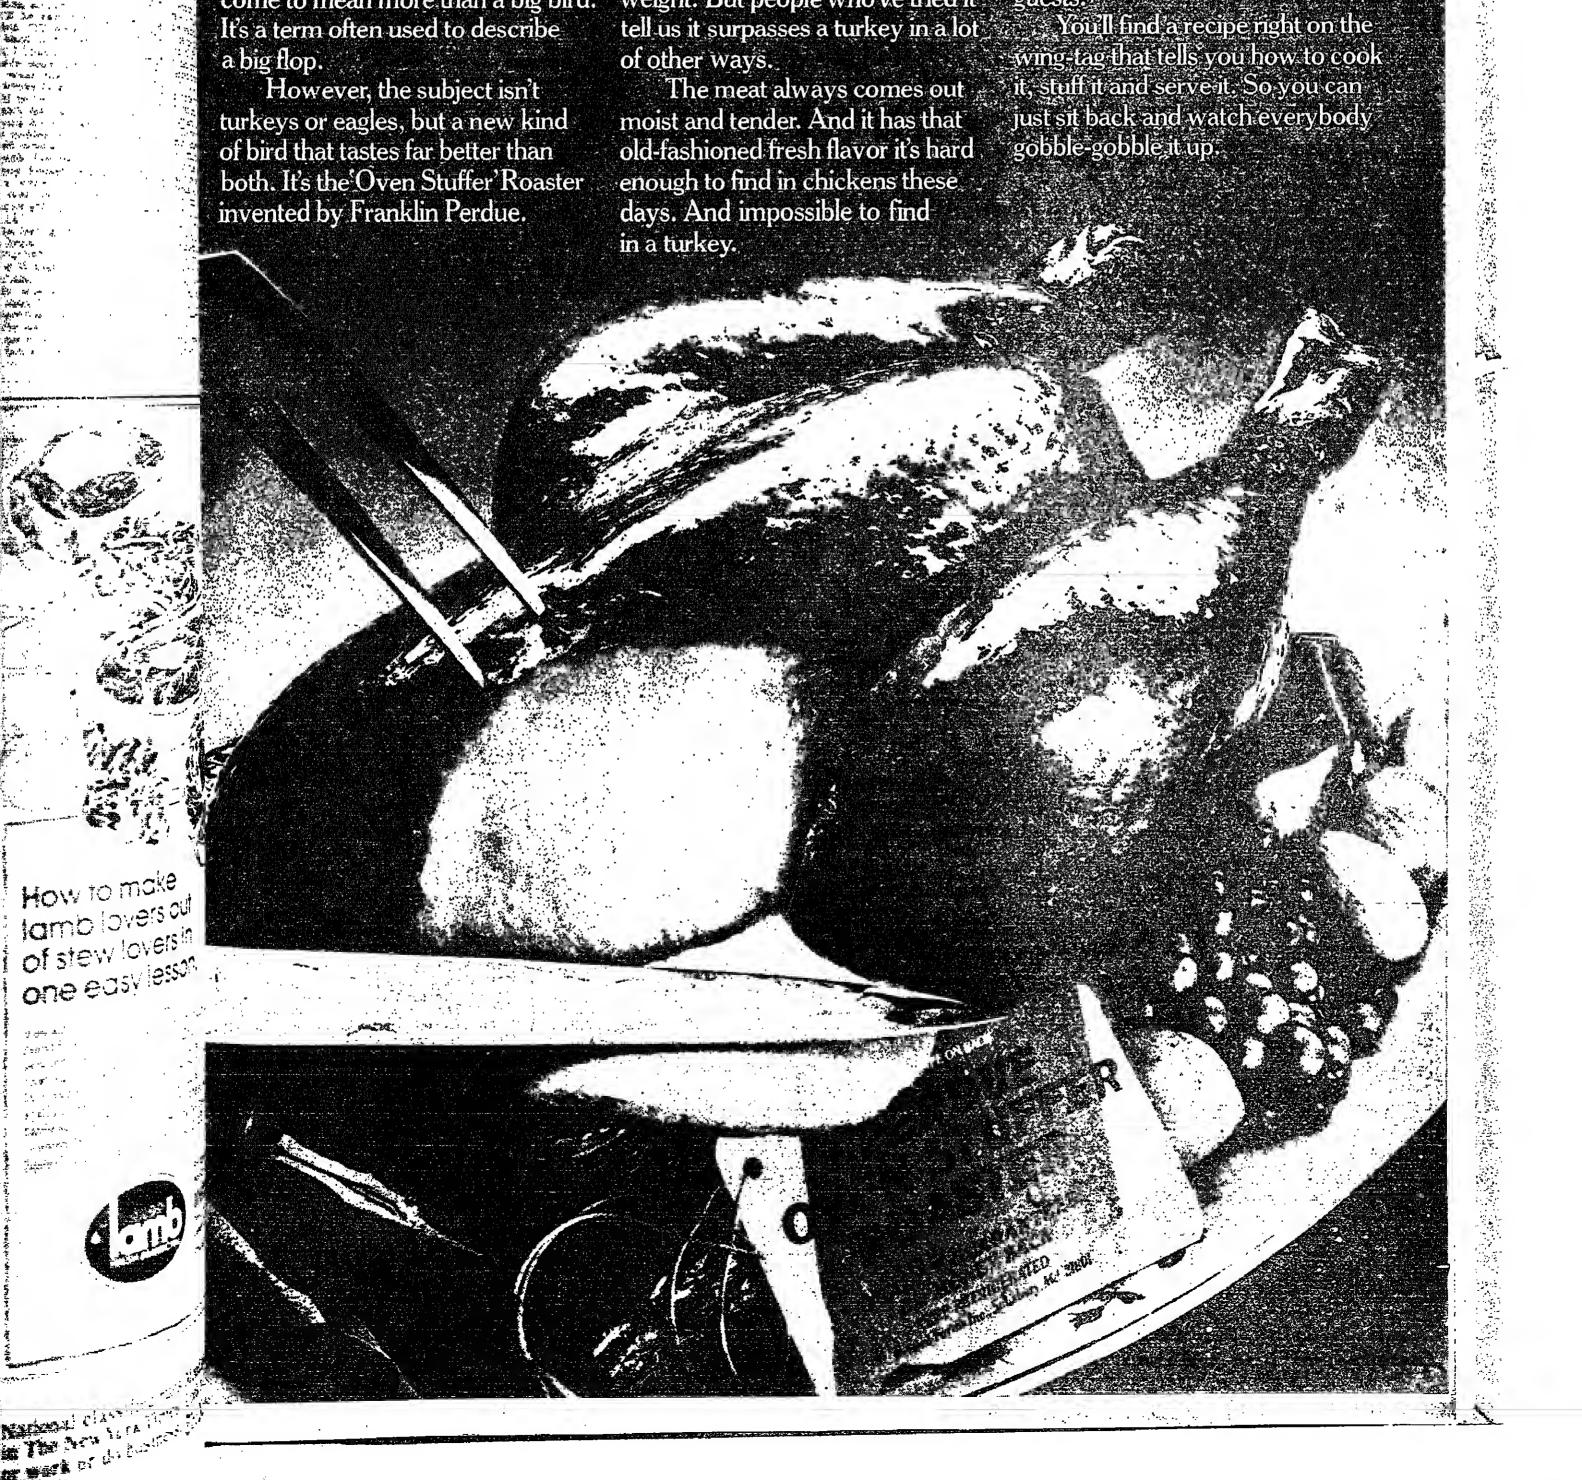

However, the subject isn't turkeys or eagles, but a new kind of bird that tastes far better than both. It's the Oven Stuffer' Roaster invented by Franklin Perdue.

The Oven Stuffer'is specially bred and specially fed to grow bigger and plumper than mere chickens ever get. It ranges from 5 to 7 lbs. So it falls short of most turkeys' weight. But people who've tried it tell us it surpasses a turkey in a lot of other ways.

The meat always comes out moist and tender. And it has that old-fashioned fresh flavor it's hard enough to find in chickens these days. And impossible to find in a turkey.

With the Perdue Oven Stuffer Roaster, you can feed 5 or 6 people without burying them in leftove So it's perfect for a large hungry family or for when you're having guests

Vintage Charts: Helpful Guides—to a Point

By FRANK J. PRIAL

Vintage charts are like fatteoing foods. People go around saying piously that they are bad for you-but everyone likes them.

It is certainly true that vintage charts are limited in what they can do. It would be very wrong to reject all 1968 red bordeaux or all 1975 red burgundies simply because a vintage chart said to do so.

"In every year, in every wine producing area, some farmers somebow manage to grow good grapes and some vintners somehow manage to produce good wine. Many off-year wines, even 'though oot of premium quality, can be good buys and pleasant to drink. A vintage chart can be a belpful tool if it is not taken as gospel. What does the chart say about, oh, let's take 1971 beaujolais? In this case it says that the 1971's were excellent wines but are possibly a bit old now.

Some Questions to Ask

Okay. Now you know enough to be cautious. Is the wine from a well-known shipper, such as Latour? If so, cnances are it will still be good. Is the price right? There are a lot of ques-tionable merchants who try to sell old wine by saving 1971 or 1969 or whatever was "a good year." The chart tells you whether it was a good year or not in the Beaujolais region.

But the chart cannot cover everything, even with beaujolais. Among the nine grand crus, there are beaujolais such as Morgoo, Cheoas and Julienas that take a few extra years to mature. The 1971's in these wines could still be quite good. Certainly a 1971 Moulin-&-Vent mould still be excellent. And so it goes for all wines. A chart

The scale-1 is the poorest and 10 the best-indicates a wine's potential when fully mature. On the letter designations, A: means the wine needs more bottle age, B: can be drunk now but probably would be better with more age. C: is ready now, and D: may still be good, but approach with caution. An X means no wine was produced that year, or wine is gone now.

can talk about vintages of red bordeaux, but can it point out that St. Estephe wines are the slowest maturing of the Médocs? Or that St. Emilions generally are drinkable before their cousins io the Médoc? Or that there are areas in Bordeaux where good wines are ready to drink in a year or two, such as Côtes de Bourge and Canon Fronsac?

Moreover, the hero has not yet been born who will achieve a vintage chart for the premium wines of California. That will probably need a computer. The present chart is an extension aod updating of one that appeared here several years 230. Like its predecessor, it is based on a system devised by Austin, Nichols & Co., wine importers, but the judgments are based on experience and consultation with wice specialists in the United States and abroad.

The chart is based on a standard of 10 instead of the traditional 20. It includes a code that attempts to indi-cate when or if the wines of a certain vintage should be drunk.

There is no place on this chart for 1976, because the vintage is not complete. However, pretiminary indications are that it may be a good year, both in Burgundy and Bordeaux.

Champagne has been eliminated from the chart this time around. There are vintage years in champagne, but they are the exception. The general practice in champagne is to blend the wines of several vintages to obtain a uniformity of product. The blenders seek the characteristic style of each champagne house, not the special qual-ities of any particular harvest. Note, too, that some older vintages for the Rhooe Valley remain oo the list. This refers to wines other than simple Côtes du Rhône. Only the finest of the Rhône wines — Hermitage, some Châteauneuf-du-Pape and Côte Rôties age with dignity.

From the great châteaux districts of Bordeaux, three remarkable wines from Cartier.

The Bordeaux region of France has been turning out some of the finest wines in the world ever since the Romans.

Most Bordeaux wines are produced in small, individually owned vineyards, or châteaux.

Of those châteaux officially cited as outstanding over the years, 85 percent are located in just three districts - Médoc, Graves and St.-Emilion.

All three are unique in soil and climate conditions.

Term vs. Ordinary Life Insurance

Harry F. Oppenheimer, head of the largest industrial empire in South Africa, said today that four months of often violent protest by blacks there had not severely affected the South African economy and business. The months of dissent, however, have changed the thinking of many business leaders, who now want changes that would lead to the elimination of apartheid, he said. Mr. Oppenheimer, who has long been one of the most outspoken opponents of the Government and its policies of apartheid, was also optimistic that the racial strife in South Africa would not reach a point where the Government could no longer remain in cootrol.

"The Government bas the force that could keep things the same for five years," he said in South Africa. "Nobody wants it the same except the lunatic fringe."

The events in South Africa, no matter what the outcome, will have a big ef-fect on his industrial empire, which in 1975 mined 40 percent of the gold, 33 percent of the coal and one-third of the uranium in Sonth Africa.

Mr. Oppenheimer's empire is made up of the Anglo American Corporation of South Africa Ltd., which controls most of his mining companies. It also incudes De Beers Consolidated Mices Ltd., which produced about 40 percent of the world's diamoods and controls the sales of over 85 percent of the world's diamoods and Charter Consoli-dated Ltd., another major holding group of many diverse companies. 18 BANKS ARRANGING $800 MILLION LOAN TO BOLSTER MEXICO Fear on the Economy

Big Eurodollar Financing Would Aid Economic Projects and Supplement $1.2 Billion I.M.F. Package

A group of 18 international banks met here yesterday to organize an $800 milion Eurodollar loan to Mexico to help finance the economic development of the country.

The loan, disclosed by Luis Chico Pardo, a representative of the Minister of Finance, whuld be the largest sought by Mexico in the Eurodollar market and one of the largest this year by any borrower. The $809 million would be in addition that $1.2 billion financing package Mexico arranged to borrow from the International Monetary Fund in September.

The financing would also be in addi-tion to $600 millinn of shnrt-term drawings that Mexico had arranged from the Treasury and Federal Reserve to be used exchange markets.

In addition, Bankers Trust International Ltd., Chase Manhat-tan Ltd., Chemical Bank, Citicorp Inter-national Ltd., and the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company were the New York banks at yesterday's meeting. The interest rate on the loan, which will be linked to the interbank rate in London, was not disclosed. It is under-trood that it would consist of two S400 down their nrevious estimates of third-stood that it would consist of two $400 millioo borrowings, oo to mature in five years and the other in seven years. According to Mr. Pardo, the purpose of the big credit is to complement the Mexican Government's 'resources to comflete "its iovestment program of basic infrastructure and other capital intensive rojects."

Before the organizational meeting o the banks, Mr. Pardo discussed Mexico's program to deal with the country's de-cision on Aug. 31 to allow the value of the peso to float against the dollar, ending 22 years of fixed parity betweeo the two currencies. As a result, the value of the peso has droped from about 8 cents to about 5 ceots.

By ALEXANDER R. HAMMER The Dow Jones industrial average tumbled 11.22 points yesterday amid increas-ing fears over the economic downturn and a possible increase in oil prices.

Yesterday's drop in the Dow to 966.76 brought the loss in the bellwether indicator to 42.55 points in the last seven trading sessions, the market reacting nervously to reports that the economy is alowing.

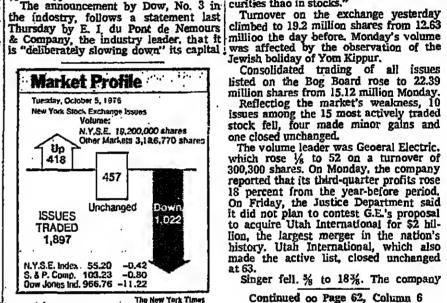

Among the depressants yesterday was an announcement by Venezuela, a major oil exporter, that it would press for an nil price increase at the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries ministerimeeting on Dec 15.

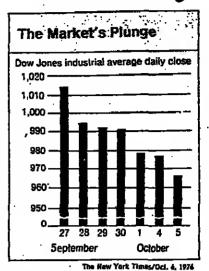

10 Percent Oil Price Rise Asked

Later in the market session, there were reports that the United Arab Emirates by the Bank of Mexico to counter asserting that the 15-mooth freeze on oil "disorderly" conditions in the foreign prices had eroded the purchasing power of the producing nations, called for a 10 percent price rise in oil. Such a price risa would increase the inflationary spiral,

By RICHARD PHALON Wheo the life insurance salesman talked to them last year a Philadelphia couple named Al and Kate agreed to what they now think may have been a mistake-the purchase of about $11,000 worth of ordinary life insur-ance on each of them at a total cost of $30 a month. "Our basic problem was that we did-n't ship and that was stupid." Al said. You shop for everything else-a car,

"You shop for everything else—a car, furniture, Joans—why not life insur-ance?" There were alternative insur-ance plans available, he now recalls, and other companies, too. Al and Kate are in tha their late 20's and hope to start a family soon. Both are working now—one in a brokerage firm, the other as a nurse— but Al is likely to be the family's major breadwinner for a long time. That's why in retrospect he thinks it might have been smarter to put more of the insurance on himself and less—perhaps a lot less—on Kate. a lot less—on Kate.

"We didn't think of it in terms of earning power," Al said. "We just wanted it to be fair." Al also thinks he and Kate should have investigated the possibility of buying term insurance a policy that loes not accumulate cash values-and less ordinary coverage—or oone at all. Doing so would have given Al and Kate considerably more protectioo for the $30 a month they budgeted, or would have enabled them to buy the same amount of protection at a sizable saving. The salesman, Al remembered, "didn't meotion term insurance at all."

Charitably construed, the salesman's failure to suggest term insurance as a possibility may have come from a deep personal conviction that ordinary pr what is called "Whole" life insur-ance was a better buy for Al and Kate. On the other hand, commissions are higher on ordinary life than on term, and ordinary life is more profitable for the underwriters, too. Thus, all of the sales incentives tend to pusb in the direction of the whola life policy. . .

What was good for the salesman, though, was not necessarily good for Al and Kate. Many regulatory authori-ties feel the balance should be redressed by requiring salesmen to indi-cate that term insurance is available. There is a basic difference between

Industrialized Bloc Finds Problems in Floating Rates of Exchange

MANILA, Oct. 5 -- While none of the industrialized countries here at the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund has urged a return to the old system of fixed currency exchange rates, a num-ber of them today and yesterday have, expressed forcefully for tha first time some of the serious problems posed for them by floating rates.

The key dilemma clearly occurs for countries with a relatively higher inflation rate than that of its partners. This is because the lower exchange erate, aimed at equalizing the situation, immediately raises the cost of imports, which often affect as much as 25 or 30 percent of the nation's overall price level.

Official Offers Explanation

Bernard Clappier, governor of the Bank of France, gave the most detailed explanation of the problem today:

"The exchange market's behavior seems to be based nowadays on an alleged law according to which, in a system of float-ing exchange rates, the differences in mflation rates between countries abould gradually be erased by contrary (offsetting) movements of exchange rates. It follows that market participants con- flation] trends which ought, instead, to

As a result, particularly in the corri-dors, but on the floor of the plenary sessions as well, delegates from Asia, Africa and Latio America are expressing concern -concerns that are still far from unanimous -that perhaps a number of issues resolved in Jamaica should be reopened, since the kind of funds they need for development are still very much in ques-

RISE 50% TO RECORD

By LEONARD SLOANE Salomon Brothers, one of Wall Street top investment banking houses, nounced yesterday that profits for the year ended Sept. 30 jumped more than 0 percent to a record $70 million from $46.3 million in the year ago period. Gross income of the firm, which oper-ties as a partnership, increased S/s per-cent to $268 million from $247 million in the 1975 fiscal year. And net worth rose 26.1 percent from $137.7 million to $173.7 million - including about $30 milion in subordinated debentures in both CRIS_

Noting that Salomon's business was en-tirely with institutions, he added that "we happened to be at the right place, at the right time, doing the right kind of busi-ness."

Tainted Marketplace

"During the last 12 months, we man aged or co-managed 163 public offerings of United States, Canadian and foreign securities with a total value of $12.6 billion," Mr. Salomon said. "We managed 125 [municipal bond] public offerings with a value of $6.6 billion."

In discussing the municipal-bond mar-het during the year, Mr. Salomon said, "the marketplace was tainted with the same problems of New York City and other cities in a similar-type boat. The price has been paid and is probably still being paid."

Bowever, he added: "New York City is unquestionably in better shape than it was. That doesn't mean they're out of the woods. But everybody that is in-volved is determined to do a job that patent law department, packages of designs for these resists have been licensed to many companies oo the same nonexclusive basis used with the machines. A total market of about 50 machines, at a cost of almost $1.2 mil-lion, "might be the limit over the next several years," Mr. Indig said,

At first, the electron-beam machines are expected to concentrate on one step, of semicooductor manufacture. This is the making of so-called master masks of chromium on glass. It is through intermediate or working copies of such masks that radiation, usually ultraviolet light, is beamed_at_the_sensitive_

The ultrashort wavelengths of the electron beam, less than a thousandth of the wavelength of ultraviolet light, permits greater precision in manufac-turing. Eventually, it should also permit many more electronic functions to be squeezed onto a given area of silicon. To reach this target, however, scien-tists and engineers will have to find ways to make individual microelectronic chips far faster than would be possible with present electron-beam machines. Max . . ۰

The sensitiva materials consist of polymer chemicals that are either made less resistant to the etching by expo-sure, in which case they are called positive resists, or hardened against the acids and called negative resists.

F.D.I.C. Problem List

Contains 368 Banks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (Reutera)-Insurance Corporation said today that 368 banks were on its problem list, of which about 20 percent could be categorized as having serious trouble. Robert Barnett, speaking at the American Bankers Association conveo-

American Bankers Association, convec-tion, said there had been a leveling off in the number of banks appearing on the F.D.I.C.'s problem list and the most recent total, 368, was down from the 25-year peak of 376 that was reached a few weeks ago. Mr. Barnett, speaking to reporters, said that so far there had been 12 bank failures this year compared with 13 failures this year compared with 13

However, there are higher-yielding ways to save money—in a sav-ings bank, for example. But ordinary life does have its advantages.

The premiums Al and Kate are paying now will remain level, whereas had they bought five-year renewable term insurance, their costs would have in-creased with their ages and the mortal-ity schlar. ity tables.

For people in Al and Kate's age bracket, term coverage premiums run much less than ordinary protection. Typically, at age 30. $10,000 worth of ordioary coverage will cost Al about $191 a year and Kate $180.90 a year. Five-year renewable term will cost them about $48.10 and $45.60, respectively. And 20-year reducing term-coverage that drops from $10,000 to zero over the two decades-will cost them around $39.10 and $36.60, respectively. As Al has now learned, however, prices vary considerably from company to company. Such outlets as fraternal organizations and mutual savings banks can also be checked for low-cost insurance.

Isn't it about time you earn tax-free income?

The U.S. Congress thought so with the passage of the Tax Reform Act. The recently enacted Tax Reform Act, now, for the first time, allows an unsestment company formed as a corporation to pass through the taxfree income to shareholders.

Invest in a managed portfolio of municipal bonds and receive tax-free income that you need not report on your federal income tax return.

Mr. Haack sees indications that the 24 banks now lending Lockheed money will soon agree to do so without the Federal aid they have heretofore demanded. "There are some banks who are willing to give up the guarantees at this moment," Mr. Haack said, without naming them.

After a bitter legislative battle, Congress to 1971 authorized the Government to guarantee $250 million in bank loans for Lockheed, a measure that was viewed as forestalling bankruptcy for the debt-ridden aircraft company.

"It is not going to be easy, but we are confident of our success." With this observation and some other pleasant-ries Toni Scimuecker, chief executive of the International Volkswagen Com-pany and chairman of the Volkswagen Manufacturing Corporation of America, yesterday ceremonially moved the com pany into its first United States plant.

Accompanied by Pennsylvania's Gov. Milton Shapp, a loser in the Democratic Presidential primaries but a winner in the multi-state Volkswagen factory derby, and other officials, Mr. Schmuecker approached the New Stan-ton. Pa., site at the head of a caravan of Yellow VW Rabbits. The plant itself was built by the Chrysler Corporation, which never used it.

Presented with an oversize key to the factory by Gov. Sbapp, Mr. Schmuecker said: "We are entering the largest single car market in the world and competing with the three largest and most able car producers that exist.

Observing that "America is becom-ing the favored country for foreign in-vestment in luxury residential property," John L. Italian Government Policy

In Italy, indexation is a governmental solicy under which personal income is adjusted to take into account inflationary changes

Sir Douglas Wass of Britain did not discuss this issue directly, but British officials make no secret of the fact that they face exactly the same dilemma.

Per Kleppe, the Norwegian Finance Minister who spoke for the Nordic countries, did not touch on any troubles of floating rates for which no one seemed his country, which has a strong currency. Ito have a ready solution.

But he cited the same problem as the others-that countries with balance of payments difficulties have allowed their INDUSTRIAL NATIONS exchange rates to drift downward with the "undeniable" result of worsening inflation and "increasing social and political tension."

Except for West Germany and the United States, there has been a widespread yearning for more "stable" exchange rates in speeches here, from both rich and poor countries. Many agreed, including Mr. Clappier of France, that in the end this could come about only through proper anti-inflation policies in individual countries. They did not ask for a return to fixed rates, recognizing with Sir Douglas that we have come to understand the limits

Principal Commodity Constries

Many Asian and Latin American countries—the principal commodity exporters —are most eager that sharp exchange-rate fluctuations be restrained. It is this position, however, that has hardened sobstantially since the key decision at the Jamaica conference to support a system of exchange-rate fluctuations—an agree-ment that was finally, and most now say reluctantly, agreed to by the developing nations. The solution to these various problems however, is seen in sharply different ways by different countries, and different blocs. All believe that the expansion of lending by the World Bank and associated agencies is a key.

The consensus, generally, is that thes countries must adjust themselves making use of broader fund resources than any of the Jamaica agreement compromises

The first continuously managed, totally liquid open-end municipal bond fund organized as a corporation. It is now possible to pass through to shareholders tax exempt income and to obtain the protection against personal liability afforded by a corporation.

Here are some of the features available to an investor:

No Sales Charge

You benefit from full investment of all your money. There is no charge for reinvestment of dividendsearnings compound to provide more tax exempt income. There is no charge for redemption.

Liquidity

You benefit from daily pricing in an open-end fund. Shares can be purchased whenever you wish. The Fund stands ready daily to redeem your shares at net asset value based on market price; you need not wait to find a buyer for your shares.

Continuous Management

You benefit from full-time supervision of your portfolio. The managers of the Fund constantly seek to preserve and improve portfolio values by searching out promising new bond opportunines and changing the portfolio to reflect current economic realities.

Diversification

Your cash is pooled with that of many other shareholders and invested in a widely diversified portfolio of tax-exempt municipals. In this way the Fund reduces the risk which comes from investing in just one or two bonds.

Tax Exempt Income

Your dividends are declared daily and reinvested for monthly compounding. Or if you prefer, you may receive them in a monthly check. The choice is yours.

Simplicity

No coupons to clip, certificates to safeguard, or records to keep. Quarterly and annual statements provided for your files.

The net asset value of your shares will be published in the Wall Street Journal and the New York Times and can be easily monitored. You know the net worth of your investment.

Low Initial Investment

You may start with $2,500 and make additional investments of as little as $100 at a time.

Addressograph Multigraph Goes to Battle

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY

and a start of the
James Whitmore, the actor, is starring in a new film that you'll never see unless you're in position to buy duplicating equipment for your corporation.

That's because the 13-minute film is one of the weapons that the year-old Field Operations Division of Addressograph Multigraph is putting into the hands of its sales force. The weapons are intended for use against Xerox.

We really need to take a strong stand, take off the gloves and go to battle," said Robert R. Hagy, divi-sional vice president, who was in town from Schaumburg, Ill., the divisional headquarters, yesterday.

The 83-year-old company seems to have gone on a wartime footing. Its troops, some 1,000 strong, will be indoctrinated at meetings at 25 places and will be issued manuals labeled "Operation Straight Talk" before they launch their raids on customers and prospects. Informational support will come via hot lines connected with the "war room" in Schaumburg.

Covering fire—artillery support-will be provided by a $1-million 90-day print advertising campaign, which is not only the company's biggest but which also will mark the first extended use of other-than-trade publications. The first ad was scheduled to appear today in The Wall Street Journal, and the campaign will also run in the busi-ness editions of Time and Newsweek, and in Busicess Week, Dun's Review, Forhes and Fortune.

The first ad takes on Xerox by name with a cost comparison. The headline: "In the long run AM heats Xerox by $21,000 a year." Campbell-Mithun, is the agency.

The reason for adding the business publications to the regular schedule, which included Administrative Management, Modern Office Procedures, Office, In-Plant Printer and Reproduction Review & Method, Mr. Hagy explained, is that "Xerox has forced the decision-making higher in corporations. They go to the top in order to penetrate

Xerox also uses a lot of television, Addressograph Multigraph has also used it in the past, Mr. Hagy said, "but we find we get better yield for our dollars from space media and printed materials."

Addressograph Multigraph is pitting its AM 4250 and soon-to-be introduced AM 4875 and AM 9000 models against the Xerox 9200.

Wall Street Frederick Cohen, a analyst with First Regional/Wood Walker, said that Xerox has been taking some market share from both Addressograph Multigraph and the A. B. Dick Company. The market, he said, is "stagnant," with most of the husiness comiog from replacement equipment. But Addressograph Multigraph has been hurt more by its own management than by its competition, he said. The tagline on all advertising hy the company is "The Straight Talking Copy People," and the Whitmore film begins with the actor reading quotes from famous historical figures on the subject

Takeover and Merger For Chirurg & Cairns

An agreement has been reached for the acquisition for cash of Chirdry & Cairns's New York operation by Leher Katz Partners. At the same time another agreement has been reached for the merger of the Boston and Hartford offices of Chirurg & Cairns and Proven-die, Eastwood & Lombardi of Boston to become Provandie &

Chirurg. The New York office of C. & C. bills about $7 million, ac-cording to Stanley H. Katz, president of Leber Katz, woo noted that some 20 of the other agency's people will be moving into his General Motors Building offices. Wallace L. Sheparoson, chairman of C. & C. will be vice chairman of L.K.P., and Thomas R. Vohs. president, of C. & C. will be a senior vice. president.

Chirurg & Cairns resulted from the merger in 1960 of Anderson & Cairns, founded in 1930, with the Thomas Chirurg Company, founded in 1933. It acquired Hugh H. Graham & Associates in 1964.

Wallcovering Campaign

The Wallcovering Manufacturers Association, made up of 61 companies in all parts of that business, has never had an advertising program of its own. It wants one, however, and has com-municated its desires to Ross Roy of New York.

Toe agency is going to give them just what they asked for (What else would an agency do?) and the plans call for both priot and television advertising in women's magazines and TV game shows.

About Real Estate Property Taxes: Ineq Are Noted for Many

By ALAN S. OSER

One virtue of the property tax, a scholar remarked recently, is that it is an old tax. People are accustomed to it. But in practice one of its faults has been its inequities.

Not only does its impact fall with little direct relationship to ability to pay; there are inequities between classes of property taxpayers, such as residential owners, commercial-proper-ty owners and owners of vacant land. and there are inequilles between jurisdictions, for example, differing effective tax rates for similar properties in dif-fereot locations. The recently established Center for Local Tax Research, based in Manhat-tan, has been conducting a study of effective tax rates in more than 400 municipalities in the metametican municipalities in the metropolitan area. The "effective" rate differs from the "nominal" rate. The nominal rate is the tax rate set by each jurisdiction for every $100 of assessed valuation. The effective rate relates the tax to actual sales prices of properties.

In New York City, the nominal rate has increased rapidly in recent years. It was $7.35 per $100 of assessed value in 1974-75, $8.18 in 1975-76, and $8.79 in 1976-77. The nominal rate is uniform for all classes of property.

But the effective rate, showing the tax rate as a percentage of "true" value as determined in sales prices, is far from uniform The discrepancies are an iodicator of the inequities in propertytax payments. They are also to some extent a measure of the economic and social health of communities. A high and rising effective rate in the absence of a healthy sales market usually means that property values have fallen to relation to assessments.

The general conclusion drawn hy the center in its latest study is that proper-ly taxes in the metropolitan area are higher than they were six months ago and are still rising; that disparities hetween communities and classes of property may be growing; and that in-come-producing, or investment, properties generally pay higher rates than home owners. An effective rate above 5 percept in an area where there is not a strong sales market is a cause for serious coocern, said Philip Finkelstein, director coocern, said Philup Finkeistein, director of the center. In New York City, the citywide effec-tive rate rose to 5.54 in 1975-76 from 4.63 for apartments; to 5.36 from 4.49 for industrial properties; to 5.43 from 4.56 for commercial properties. There is no citywide effective rate for all properties because such a number properties, because such a number would mix such a diverse aggregate of properties as to be meaningless, Mr. Finkelstein said. . .

The strength (and relative underas-sessment) of the private-home market in relation to private homes regionally is indicated by the study. The effective rate for these properties in the city rose only to 2.20 from 1.84. Vacant land-which the center feels broading speaking is grossly underassessed-rose to 1.67 from 1.40.

The center studied the sales figures executive admitted tak in relation to tax rates in 28 counties that the loss was counties in the metropolitan area-14 in New York and 14 in New Jersey. Essex and

A CONTRACTOR

Hospital Affiliation Proposed

An affiliatioo contract is the agreement under which a voluntary—that is, private, nonprofit—hospital provides doctors and oher professional staff members for a municipal hospital. The city hospitals corporation formally proposed yesterday that it enter into such an agreement with Misericordia Hospital in the Bronx, although it added that there was still a last minute possibility the contract might be awarded to Montefiore Hospital, which has also been under consideration. "If the State Health Department looks at the (Misericordia)proposal and agrees to it, they will issue an operating certifi-cate for North Central Bronx Hospital," said Stephen Berger, executive director for the State Emergency Financial Control Board and a key figure in thehospital dispute.

In effect, the possible move forward next year.

There was no sadness or regret in his voice, only the echoes of exciting movement, and he reject-ed the idea of preserving dance on film. "Film is terrible, you have to see real people. Of course, todayie dance mon't last it never today's dance won't last, it never lasted before. The dancers are trained in a certain way, and they are only interesting for the people of the time to watch. In 100 years the training will be different. Who knows, maybe the dancers will have another leg?"

The flight of fantasy carried him away from the tiresome effort of talking about himself and his own taking about himself and his own ideas. "Who knows, they'll take pills instead of food, and bave no stomacbs. They'll just have a big hole in the middle of their face, to hreathe food and air, and no stomacbs. They'll call us very usly with our facth and his?" his

Summary

Partly cloudy skies, and mild temperatures will pre-vail along the Eastern Sea-board today. Showers and thundershowers are expected along the leading edge of a cold front from the lower lake region to the central Gulf Coast. Except for some showers across central portions of the Plains States and Rockies, and also in portions of the Pacific Northwest, it will be fair throughout the rest of the country. Mild or warm weather will occur along the Gulf Coast. Pacific Coast and in the Southwest; temperatures will be cool elsewhere

Skies were fair yesterday across the eastern third of the country except for variably cloudy skies from southern New England into portions of the Middle Atlantic States. It was cool in the Northeast, and mild or warm in the rest of the eastern half of the country. Under cloudy skies showers and thundershowers extended from upper Michigan through central Missourl to the western Gulf Coast; locally heavy rainfalls occurred from northern Missouri to southern Texas. Skies were clear across most of the Northern and Central Plains States and the Southwest: clouds spread from the Pacific Northwest through the northern Rockies into portions of the Plaios States. It was cold in the upper Mississippi Valley and northern Rockies, warm in the South-west, and mild elsewhere.

You're looking at the most wanted man in the world.

Peter Frampton, all 120 pounds of him, is rock's Big Thing just now. He's grossed $50 million this year ... and that's gross. Peter and his pretty Penny live on a rustic 55 acres, 40 miles north of Manhattan.

Ilyich Ramirez is "Carlos" ... is "The Jackal" ... is the bloodiest terrorist in the world. He could have stepped out of one of the spy thrillers he loves ... speaks -6 languages, is a master of disguises, specializes in hairbreadth escapes, works like a man with nothing to lose. Read this real-life chiller in People.

Barbara Walters is scared, now that sh being served up at supper. "If firecrackers do come out of my ears, people will yell, 'Catastrophe'." Is she worth her million per? Will Harry Ressoner get lost in the furniture?

Split of the week. Burt Bacharach and Angie Dickinson are calling it quits after 11 years of sweet music. Trouble is, their careers were always out of sync. Now she's up...he's down.

Katharine Hepburn up close. "I've been an inhabitant of Central Park for 50 years...I'd run a rope around the park and get the Marines to go in and catch everybody." A sharp and gutsy lady.

Gay marriage. Dr. Tom Waddell and landscape architect Charles Deaton say, We have the same problems as any other couple." Superjock Waddell placed 6th in the decathlon at the'68 Olympics... Deaton's an ex-CIA operative.

Anuja. "After 40," she says, "each screw in your body gets loose, so you have to oil, clean and tighten the screws." Here, Elliot Richardson's wife Anne works on her screws. She says yoga's better than tennis and skiing.

If you're looking for action, you're in the right place. This week's People has got to be the happiest, hoppiest, happeningest magazine you ever got your hands on.

In fact, nothing in magazines is happening the way People is happening. Our circulation's already 1,800,000. That means 10,500,000* adult readers.

Some adult readers! They're the out-front folk...the young, educated, prospering, urban men and women who are always aheadof the pack. All ways.

They're devoted to People because it's the one magazine that's a match for their interests, their life-styles, their insatiable cimosity about people. It's the mid-70's in print and they read it all. Front. Middle. Back.

All sorts of advertisers have decided that People people are precisely their kind of people. Check out the variety of ads in this issue ... cars, cosmetics, food, appliances, tobacco, apparel, liquor, and on and on.

If you're selling people products, it's just good sense to do it in People. Why else do you think we went from 43rd to 14th in PIB ad pages in the first half?

Your new media option is right here. Grab hold of People's momentum. Sell in the new marketplace. • Publisher's estimate.

Suddenly, it's the place to be.
